Get Ready for College

Join us on June 27 @ 2:00 as Carolyn Langely from the NC Cooperative Extension of Randolph County will talk to teens about how college success can be enhanced with a little planning and thinking before heading off to a new life as an underclassman.

"College 101...Strategies for 1st Year Success" requires registration; there's a $3 fee per student (parents/guardians admitted free). Refreshments will be served.

Some of the topics to be discussed are time management, the social scene, credit card lies, safety on campus and much, much more!

Call the NC Cooperative Extension Director, 318-6000 or the library at 318-6824 to register or for more information.

Summer Reading for Teens

- Register to participate at your library
- Receive a punch card; 10 pages read earns one punch.

Book Review by Tiffany Byerly

I have found the best "chick" novel, or maybe I should say the best "chick" series. Written by Kristen Billerbeck, the Ashley Stockingdale novels are a fun, wholesome, and easy read.

The books tell the story of, guess who- Ashley Stockingdale- a single attorney living in California who is beginning to become desperate over her singleness. Filled with laughter, tears, ice cream, and a good dose of designer fashion, the three Stockingdale books are sure to inspire any girl's inner "chickness"!

Check these out at your library!
