Say WOW...brary!

Get weekly updates by email about new library books, more

♣ A new weekly email newsletter will keep local readers up-to-date on the latest arrivals at the Randolph County Public Library.

Sign up for the "Wowbrary" newsletter at www.wowbrary.org, and each Saturday an e-newsletter will arrive in your inbox showcasing new books, audiobooks and DVDs that have entered in the library's collection in the past week.

From the web-based newsletter, you can place items on hold via the library's catalog or take a look at Amazon.com reviews. The newsletter breaks down new arrivals by categories (fiction, memoirs, home and garden, history, business and investing, teens, and many more), and features top choices based on Amazon sales rank, complete with brief summaries.

You also can sign up for Wowbrary RSS feeds, or access the current Wowbrary newsletter through the library catalog (look for the Newest Arrivals tab at the top, between Search and Best Sellers).

Fox gets highest award

Author, pound pup to feature new book

♣ Former Asheboro resident Carol Phelps will discuss her new book, The Primates of Woodpeck Ridge and Other Ramblings at 1 p.m. Saturday, September 27, at the Asheboro library.

Also on hand will be Smiley, the pound pup featured on the cover. A book signing by the author and "pawtograph" by Smiley will follow.

Phelps' books are a memoir of growing up in West Virginia in the 1950s and 1960s. Smiley, rescued by local resident Myra Gaddy, was drafted for the cover when Phelps learned about the dog's unique grin.

Aguero shares talents with library

♣ Spanish Language storytimes will resume on the second Saturday of each month at 11:30 a.m. in the Asheboro library's Children's Room thanks to volunteer Carolina Aguero.

Readers may remember Carolina from previous volunteer stints with the library. Last year she and Maria Victoria Alvarado offered Spanish and bi-lingual storytimes on two Saturdays a month. Carolina read Pacho, a story in Spanish, at Randolph Mall as part of last September's Smartest Card initiative "Four Readings and a Library Card."

Carolina, a native of Argentina, is an ESL teacher at Liberty Elementary School. She is in the United States as part of the Visiting International Faculty program. Teachers representing more than 50 countries throughout the world are in this country for three year stays, offering new perspectives to their students and communities while gaining new teaching experiences. While working full-time and volunteering in several capacities, Carolina is also pursuing a masters degree in ESL at Greensboro College. She plans to graduate in May 2009.

Carolina Aguero

Carolina's storytimes have proven quite popular, drawing nearly a dozen kids. Her presentation is lively and energetic, says Children's Librarian Myra Long, employing flannel boards and interactive games and learning opportunities. She has networked with a representative from WUNV-TV to offer supplementary Spanish and bi-lingual materials for the children at the monthly storytimes as well as to her class at Liberty Elementary.

In her spare time, Carolina and her husband, a teacher and assistant soccer coach at Asheboro High School, enjoy getting together with other teachers in the VIF program to watch World Cup soccer, dine out, and go to movies. They also make it a point to celebrate each others birthdays since they are all so far from home. She says the VIF program has introduced her to many people from around the world who have been a mainstay of support for her and her husband. They try to go to Argentina at least twice a year and stay in touch with family on a regular basis through the Internet via email and "skype."

Carolina has proven to be a major asset to the library and to the community. Muchas gracias, Carolina!

Fox receives Order of Long Leaf Pine

♣ Retired Library Director Charlesanna Fox has received the Order of the Long Leaf Pine, North Carolina's highest civilian award.

The Order of the Long Leaf Pine, awarded by the governor, recognizes individuals who have a proven record of service to the state. The citation was delivered to Fox, who resides in Burlington, by County Manager and former library director Richard Wells; Marian Tillman, one of the Archdale library's founders; Library Director Suzanne Tate and Business Manager Linda Shirley.

Look for more about the award in next month's newsletter.
