ASHEBORO

'Orphan Train' experience wraps library's 'Road Scholar' series

♣ Join history buff and family researcher Tamra Wilson as she talks about her quest to discover how her grandmother wound up in the middle of Illinois with no known relatives in "Sarah McGuirk, Orphan Train Rider," at 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 21, at the Asheboro library.

Wilson's talk is free and the public is invited. It's the last in the library's Road Scholar series, a project made possible by funding from the North Carolina Humanities Council, a statewide nonprofit and affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Support also is provided by the Friends of the Library.

Orphan Trains resettled some 250,000 children from crowded eastern cities to rural areas of the United States from 1853 to 1929. Using her ancestor as a case study, Wilson explains how the orphan train program worked and didn't work, and explores the story behind the story: the influx of Irish immigrants from the Great Famine.

Wilson, who lives near Newton, N.C., is author of Dining with Robert Redford and Other Stories, short fiction about small town life.

Also... inspirational fiction, soccer, yoga

RANDOLPH WRITERS TALK INSPIRATIONAL FICTION: 6:30 p.m.

Thursday, June 16. Interested in writing wholesome fiction with a spiritual message? Authors Mary Ball and Tracey Marley will lead an open discussion about what goes into creating an inspirational fiction novel. Open to writers and readers.

UNCG PROF TALKS BRAZIL AND FOOTBALL: 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 23. Football — soccer, to many in the U.S. — is more than a pastime in Brazil; it's a bond that links people of all backgrounds to their common heritage as Brazilians. Join Peter Villella, assistant professor of history at UNCG, to explore how Brazil became "The Country of Football."

A GENTLE INTRODUCTION TO YOGA: 10:30 a.m. Saturday, July 16. Certified yoga instructor Albert Meyer will provide an introduction to various yoga poses that can be tailored to the physical needs of the participants, at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, July 16, at the Asheboro library. Free; dress appropriately.
