The service men pictured above, Worth Buie at the left and Bill Buie at the right, sons of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Buie of Franklinville, are the subject of an article written by Rev. C. F. Laughlin of Cedar Falls. Bill has been killed in action, while Worth is still serving with the armed forces.

I have delayed the writing of this article because the words at my command seemed so inadequate to express my feelings. As I try to write now, I find myself in a reminiscent mood. I can only think of Bill and Worth Buie as two small boys who lived next house down the street. Only yesterday they were two little shavers around town, but time passes as though it were borne on the wings of an eagle.

The boys grew up into young American manhood, typical of millions of other American youths — the finest the world has ever known, and now that Bill has made the supreme sacrifice for his country and Worth is still away at sea, I like to think that they have just moved around the corner and that I will be seeing them both again soon.

You and I can see all around us the results of the efforts put forth and the sacrifices made by these millions of young Americans of which Bill and Worth Buie were and are a part. We see the workman going to his daily task, the business man to his office. We see the school bus go by, loaded down with carefree happy children. We hear the laughter of boys and girls at play as we pass down the street. On the Lord's Day, we hear the church bells peal out their call to come and worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience. We see happy families on their way to church in response to that call. We see the American way of life preserved and sustained because we had enough of young men like Bill and Worth Buie to do the job — brave died to defend and restore to us life as we like it and the only kind of life worthwhile.

Bill Buie lived a lifetime in making his contribution to the above mentioned accomplishments. Continued battle action against a cruel relentless foe make young men old in a day, a month, or a year. Bill had part in no less than nineteen battle engagements in the Pacific besides being in hostile waters most of the time for three years. His record for devotion to duty and bravery in action is not only unquestionable but commendable.

Bill has gone on; Worth will come home. To us who live he has thrown the torch of freedom. May it be ours to hold it high and may we not break faith with those who die, but may we so cherish our precious heritage and so appreciate the sacrifice Bill has made and the effort Worth has put forth that we, a peace loving people, will leave nothing undone to secure this peace for those who come after us.

Ration Calendar

What Did You Do Today?

By Lt. Dean Shatlain,
Tank Commander

(Written on the battlefields of Africa)

What did you do today,
my friend
From morning 'til the nite?
How many times did you complain
That rationing is too tight?
When are you going to start to do
All of the things you say?
A soldier would like to know, my friend,
What did you do today?

We met the enemy today,
And took the town by storm.
Happy reading it will make
For you tomorrow morn.
You'll read with satisfaction
The brief communique.
We fought, but are you
fighting?

What did you do today?
My gunner died in my arms
today;
I feel his warm blood yet;
Your neighbor's dying boy gave out
A scream I'll never forget.
On my right a tank was hit,
A flash and then a fire
The stench of burning flesh
Still rises from the pyre.

What did you do today,
my friend,
To help us with the task?
Did you work harder and longer for less,
Or is that too much to ask?
What right have I to ask you this,
You probably will say.
Maybe now you'll understand,
You see . . . I died today.

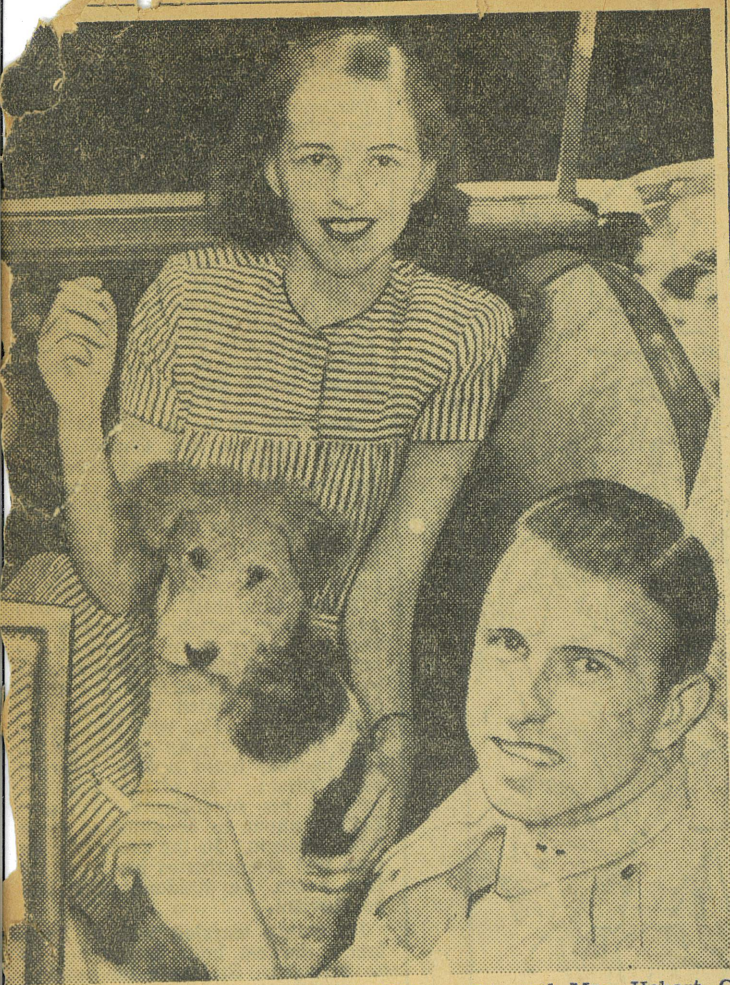

(Note: Lt. Shatlain amputated his own foot with a jack-knife and thought he was dying as he wrote this poem. He was rescued by Americans after two hours of hiding and is now re-

FANNIE HAS FALLEN ASLEEP

Fannie was tired and weary,
Weary with suffering and pain.
Put away her bed and rocker,
She will not need them again.
Into Heaven's mansions she has entered,
Never to sigh or to weep,
After long days of suffering.

Fannie has fallen asleep,
Near other loved ones she was laid,
Low in the churchyard to lie,
Though our heart is nearly broken,
Yet we would not ask why.
She does not rest beneath the grass,
Tho' oe'r her dear grave it will creep,
She has gone into the kingdom.

Fannie has fallen asleep,
Rest her dear feet now forever.
Her busy hands are so still,
The troubles of this earth shall
No longer throw oe'r her a chill, Angels through Heaven will guide her,
Jesus will still bless and keep,
Not for the world would she wake.

Fannie has fallen asleep,
Beautiful rest for the weary,
Well deserved rest for the true,
When our life's journey is ended.
We shall again be with you.
All these thoughts help to quiet
our grieving,
Because her reward is beautiful,
beautiful sleep.

MRS. CHARLES H. WELBORN

Miss Routh Speaks Her Nuptial Vows With Mr. Welborn

(Special to Daily News)

FRANKLINVILLE, April 24.—The marriage of Miss Nancy Elizabeth Routh and Charles Hardee Welborn was solemnized on Friday evening, March 26, at Franklinville Methodist Church. Rev. W. A. Elam, pastor, assisted by Rev. F. H. Shinn, pastor of the Franklinville Methodist Church, used the double ring service in a green and white setting.

Mrs. Ralph Humble of Asheboro, pianist, and Mrs. Coy Chandler of Franklinville, soloist, presented nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a Chantilly lace yoke, high round neckline, fitted bodice and long Chantilly lace sleeves. A cascade of satin rippled over the skirt and flared gracefully into a long train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was caught to a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls and she carried a white Bible topped with an orchid.

The maid of honor was Miss Bonnie Quay of Harrisburg, and the bridesmaids were Misses Selene Hunt of Atlanta, Ga., and Sarah Anne Jones, a cousin of the bride. Little Cynthia Routh Buie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Buie, of Biscoe, was flower girl. Joe Sam Routh, small brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bridegroom had as best man Lawrence Jones of Ramseur and the groomsmen were Edgar Routh, brother of the bride; Joe Page Burns, Donald Baldwin, Tony Leonard, of Ramseur, Sidney Hodgins and Paul Craven of Asheboro.

Mrs. Welborn is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Routh of Franklinville. She is a graduate of Brevard College and is now a member of the faculty of the Asheboro city schools, teaching in the Balfour school.

Mr. Welborn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Welborn of Ramseur. Since his return from service in the armed forces he has been employed at the Ramseur Pharmacy.

The bride traveled in a three-piece tailored blue suit with black and white accessories. She pinned her orchid at her shoulder. They are making their home in Franklinville.

He was also chairman of O. R. T. C., an organization of railway men.

HENRY COUNTY FARMER

FRED H. PILKENTON

FRANKLINVILLE, Aug. 3.—Fred Harvey Pilkenton, 46, died Thursday in a New Albany, Indiana, hospital. A former resident of Franklinville, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mae Hudson Pilkenton of the home; four daughters, Mrs. Jack Zachary of Asheboro, Azaleigh, Shirley, and Marcia; home; three sons, H. J., Donald and Fred of Greensboro; sisters, Mrs. E. N. Jones, Mrs. L. M. Curtis of Greensboro, brothers, B. C. and H. M. of Franklinville. The body will be taken to Brady's Funeral Home in Ramseur. Funeral will be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday in the Franklinville Methodist Church and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Beloved Franklinville Postmaster Retires

One of the best known and best loved citizens of Franklinville, Cornelius Harnett Julian, has retired as Franklinville's postmaster on the eve of his 77th birthday.

Mr. Julian has been postmaster for the past 15 years; but his position as an active, respected and beloved member of the community dates back much further.

To start at the beginning: Mr. Julian was born near Cedar Falls August 31, 1871. He attended public school in the days when the school term lasted three or four months in the year. He continued his education in a private school at Ramseur taught by the late D. M. (Dave) Weatherly, a teacher widely known in this section of the state.

After availing himself of every opportunity to advance his education, Mr. Julian entered the teaching profession. He taught in the public schools for several years.

Education and teaching, however, do not by any means sum up the varied experience of his life. Leaving the role of schoolmaster, he worked for a while as carpenter. Later he opened a cotton gin at Franklinville, and operated it for several years.

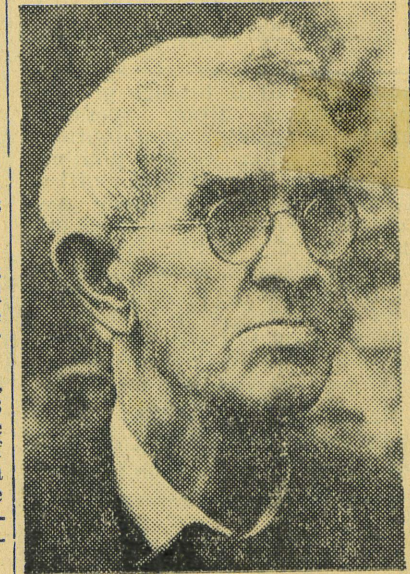

He became a cloth inspector for Randolph Mills, Inc., and held that position until he became Franklinville's postmaster August 1, 1933. His services in that office, until his retirement a week ago, further endeared him to the community.

He has been active also in other services to his community.

As far back as most Randolph residents can remember, Mr. Julian served as secretary of the Franklinville township Sunday school convention. The memory of Mr. Julian sitting at a table recording activities of every convention is to many a familiar part of the recollection of the sessions.

He was also secretary of the quarterly conference of the Ramseur-Franklinville charge of the Methodist church for a long period of years, relinquishing that position only a couple of years ago.

C. H. JULIAN

He held every office in the Franklinville Masonic Order, and is now past master of that lodge.

He is known and beloved also for his wit and personality. One of Mr. Julian's fellow townsmen, while riding in his car, overtook the postmaster on the street and asked him if he wanted to ride. The reply was, "No, I'm in a hurry, so I'll just walk."

While no information was forth coming from Mr. Julian as to his future plans, it is pretty certain that he will be engaged in something that is for the betterment of the community.

Eli C. Allen Services Are Held Wednesday

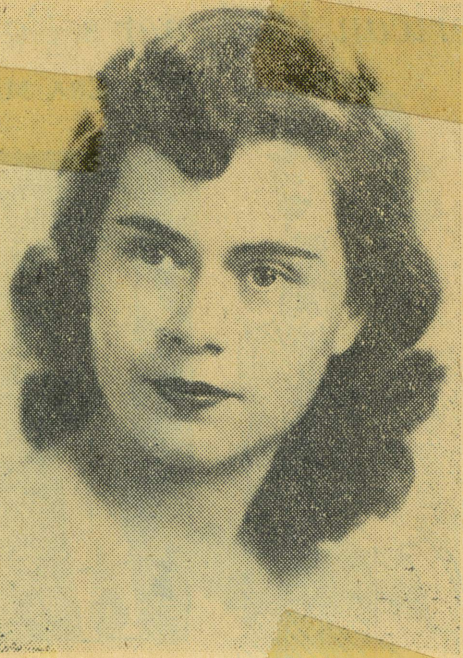

Eli C. Allen, 68, of Ramseur Rt. 1 passed away at his home Tuesday night after an illness of two weeks.

Funeral Services Held Today For R. L. Caveness

DR. R. L. Caveness
Funeral Today

Began Career As Country Doctor Own Community

Funeral services for Dr. R. L. Caveness, 84, long time county doctor and native of Randolph county who died at his home on Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, were held from Concord Methodist church, Coleridge, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. G. C. Graham and Rev. G. B. Clemmer, superintendent of the Thomasville district of the Methodist church.

Dr. Caveness, who would have been 85 years old on August 30, died as a result of a heart attack.

He was a son of the late John Randolph and Adeline Caveness and had been active in the textile business since 1904 when he became associated with the Enterprise Manufacturing company of Coleridge. At the time of his death, Dr. Caveness was serving as president and chairman of the board of directors of the corporation.

He attended Randolph county schools and graduated from the Baltimore School of Medicine in 1892. In December of 1896, he was married to the former Sarah Florence Cole who died a year ago today, August 16, 1950.

Dr. Caveness had been a member of Concord Methodist church for the past 71 years and had taught a Sunday school class in his church for more than 50 years. He served as superintendent of the Sunday school for many years and at the time of his death was chairman of the board of stewards. He donated to his church the Florence Hall building and a pipe organ.

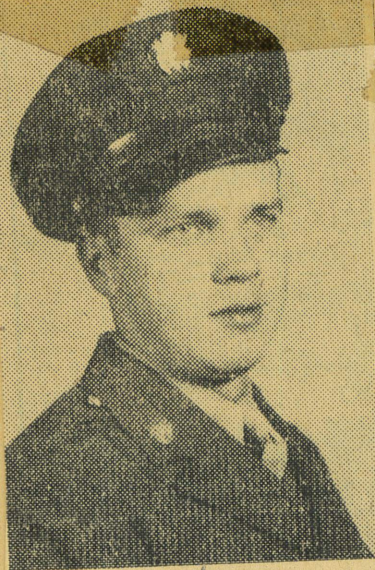

His other business activities included helping to organize the Bank of Coleridge at Ramseur which he also served as president and chairman of the board of directors.

He was active in the political and civic affairs of his community, being a member of the Lions club, a Mason and chairman of the Democratic party for the township of Coleridge. During World War I, he served as chairman of the Randolph county draft board.

During the latter years of his life, Dr. Caveness had devoted a large part of his time to a one-man reforestation project on a 2,000 acre tract of land that he owned.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. G. W. Allen, Mrs. R. L. Albright, and Mrs. G. R. Hodgins; and six grandchildren, all of Coleridge.

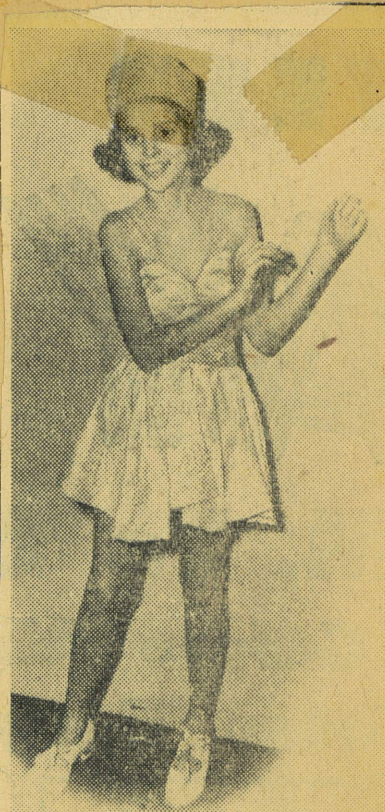

Following the funeral services, interment was in Concord cemetery. Active pallbearers included E. C. Horner, A. G. Taylor, B. F. Smith, E. E. Rains, Thurman Cox and Charles Brown.

LAST RITES—Funeral services for Pfc. James E. York of Franklinville will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Baptist church in Ramseur and reburial will be made in Sunny Knoll cemetery with the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9335, Ramseur, in charge of the military ceremony. The body arrived yesterday and will remain at Brady Funeral Home, Ramseur, until the hour of the service.

Pfc. York was born May 16, 1917, and was reared in Ramseur, but was living in Franklinville when he entered the service on June 2, 1943. He served over eight months in the Pacific area with Company C, 88th Chemical warfare service. He was seriously wounded on October 22, 1944 on Leyte while serving with the 6th army and was killed in action on May 4, 1945 on Okinawa at which time he was serving with the 10th army.

He was the son of Mrs. Ollie York and the late Ernest T. York of Ramseur. He married Miss Annabelle West on May 15th, 1937, who has since remarried and is now living in California.

ON TELEVISION — Johnette Fulcher, talented young tap dancer, appeared on television in Norfolk, Va., on March 14th. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fulcher of Portsmouth. Her mother is the former Miss Eleanor Davidson of Franklinville.

BETHANY BAPTIST CHURCH

MRS. MAX H. REDDING

Emily Ann Stone And Mr. Redding Exchange Vows

ASHEBORO, Jan. 27.—In candle-light satin and veil of illusion, Miss Emily Ann Stone pledged her vows with Max Herman Redding of Cedar Falls, Sunday afternoon, January 21, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Payne Stone.

Dr. S. W. Taylor, retired Methodist minister, and former pastor of the bride, officiated.

Music was presented by Mrs. R. J. Hilker, pianist, and Miss Earline Vestal, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown fashioned with illusion yoke which joined the satin in an off-shoulder line. She flounced with real lace, which also was used around the hips of the skirt, long sleeves, and full skirt which swept into a long train. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and her only ornament was a string of pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid.

After an informal reception, Mr. and Mrs. Redding left for a wedding trip south. The bride traveled in a lilac gabardine suit, small off-white hat and other accessories were navy.

Mrs. Redding is a Sophomore at Woman's College, Greensboro, where she plans to continue studies. Mr. Redding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Redding of Cedar Falls, is a Sophomore at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, but has enlisted in the Air Force and has been called to report for duty January 31 at the Air Force Base in San Antonio, Tex.

MRS. F. MAC DAVIS

Emma Jo Wallace And F. Mac Davis United In Church

FRANKLINVILLE, May 3—Miss Emma Jo Wallace was married to Fred Mac Davis of Gray's Chapel at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 30, in Franklinville Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Duvenant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clarence Wallace. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis of Gray's Chapel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had her sister, Miss Diane Wallace, for maid of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Johnnie Davis of Gray's Chapel, Miss Lorraine Wallace, cousin of the bride, Miss Barbara Philbeck and Mrs. Richard Nixon were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom had his uncle, Harvey Dunn of Gray's Chapel, for best man. The bride's brother, Randy Wallace, ushered with Mr. Nixon, Worth York and J. T. Coble. Music was given by Miss Julia Hancock, soprano, and Vernon Phillips, organist.

Seed pearl embroidery ornamented the empire bodice of the bride's white slipper satin gown, which was fashioned with long sleeves, scalloped Peter Pan collar and full skirt which extended into a cathedral train. Her fingertip illusion veil was caught to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white orchid on a white prayer book.

The honor attendant wore green net over taffeta and carried white asters. The bridesmaids were in gowns of pink and blue net over taffeta and carried nosegays of pink and blue asters. All wore pearls, gifts of the bride.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Davis will live in Asheboro. The bride, a graduate of Franklinville High School, is employed in the office of Acme Hosiery Mills in Asheboro. The bridegroom, a graduate of Gray's Chapel High School, is employed by Klopman Mills in Central Falls. He had two years of service in the Air Force.

FIFTIETH—Mr. and Mrs. Luther Burrow, long time Franklinville residents, who celebrated the fiftieth year of their marriage Sunday afternoon, January 21.

Couple Honored

By RALPH L. BULLA

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Burrow, long time Franklinville residents, were honored Sunday, January 21, on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Their four sons, their daughters-in-law and other members of their family held open house in their honor at their home on Clark Ave.

Around one hundred people, including neighbors, friends and relatives, called from two o'clock until five to extend congratulations to this respected Franklinville couple.

The open house event had been rescheduled from a week before because of the inclement weather.

William Luther Burrow, 69, was born in the Mt. Taber church area southeast of Asheboro but came with his family to Franklinville a year or so after his birth. His father, William Marion Burrow, died about five years after he was born and his mother, Mary Francener Woodell Burrow, was left with the responsibility of rearing her sons and daughters.

Mr. Burrow attended the Franklinville school, taught by the renowned Professor Dave Weatherly, but left school at the age of 13 to work in the cotton mill at Franklinville.

Mrs. Burrow, the former Bessie Ethel Kinney, was one of fourteen children born to George Kinney and Sarah Jane Hammer Kinney. She was born in Franklinville and has been a lifelong resident.

She too received her schooling from Professor Weatherly before starting to work in the mill at the age of 11. The mill in Franklinville was owned at that time by Hugh Jack Parks and both Mr. and Mrs. Burrow attest that he was a "good man to work for."

The couple were married January 12, 1918 at the home of the Methodist minister in Ramseur. They were transported to the home of the minister by "Uncle" Jim Buie, one of the men at the mill, in his Model T Ford. According to Mr. Burrow, he was "running for hire."

After living with Mr. Burrow's mother for about a year, the couple established their own household. Four sons, Willie Burrow, Asheboro; David Burrow, Rt. 1, Franklinville; Cletus (Dock) Burrow, Rt. 6, Asheboro; and Maurice Burrow, Asheboro, were born to their marriage. There are also seven grandchildren.

Mr. Burrow retired a few years ago after working in the mill continuously for fifty years and eight months. His last working days were spent at Columbia Manufacturing Company in Ramseur. Mrs. Burrow retired in 1948 after something over thirty years of employment.

Family members assisted in the open house event Sunday which was marked by its friendliness, its cordiality and as a get-together of family, old friends and associates.

After being greeted by the honored couple and their sons, the guests were registered by Miss Louise Kinney, a niece of Mrs. Burrow, and served punch, cake squares, mints, nuts and cheese squares by Mrs. Cletus P.

RANDLEMAN BANKER PASSES FOLLOWING EXTENDED ILLNESS

A. B. Beasley, 69, Dies; Funeral Service Monday Afternoon

LEADER IN COMMUNITY

Alfred B. Beasley, prominent banker and civic leader of Randleman, died early Sunday in an Asheboro hospital. He was 69 years of age.

Although Mr. Beasley had been in declining health for several years, he had been active as president of the Peoples Bank of Randleman until recently.

He had served as a member of the Randolph county board of commissioners, and as chairman of the board.

He served two terms as mayor of Randleman. He was one of the original incorporators of Randolph Hospital, Inc., and was re-elected repeatedly as vice president of the hospital corporation.

He was a steward and treasurer of the First Methodist church of Randleman.

He was a member of the Randleman Lions club.

The widely known Randleman banker was a native of Randolph county, the son of B. B. and Mary Beasley, one-time residents of Back Creek township. He was born August 31, 1881.

He learned the banking business in Greensboro, where he was at one time connected with the American Exchange National Bank.

Moving to Randleman in 1911, he took the position of cashier at Peoples Bank. He held that position until he became president, and remained president until his death. During the 40 years he served the institution enjoyed a steady and impressive growth.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Ollie Mae Fentress of Franklinville whom he married in 1928.

Surviving also are two sons, Joe Beasley, U. N. C. student at Chapel Hill, and John Beasley of the home; one daughter, Nancy Beasley, of the home; and one sister, Mrs. William B. Ward of Concord.

The funeral service was conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mt. Lebanon Methodist church, with burial in the church cemetery.

Allred-Grose Couple Speak Vows In Methodist Ceremony

Miss Mary Susan Allred and Milton Carl Grose were united in marriage August 1, at four o'clock in the Franklinville Methodist Church, Franklinville. The Rev. Wade Bustle was the officiating minister.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Peter Allred of Franklinville. She was graduated from Franklinville High School, completed one year at Guilford College in Greensboro and one year at King's Business College, Raleigh. Prior to her marriage, she was employed with the North Carolina Department of Revenue in Raleigh.

Mr. Grose is the son of Mrs. Victor Reid of Ramseur and the late Marvin Grose. He was graduated from Ramseur High School and Elon College with a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Health and Physical Education, and minor in Biology, where he was a member of ITK Fraternity, Elon varsity baseball team and Physical Education Director's Club. He is presently employed as head athletic coach at York Academy, West Point, Virginia.

Prior to the wedding Mrs. B. C. Jones, organist of Franklinville, presented a prelude of wedding music, and Mrs. Coy Chandler, soloist of Franklinville, sang "Ave Maria" and "Through the Years", and Mrs. Phillip Jones, of Asheboro, soloist, sang "The Greatest of These is Love", and "Whither Thou Goest".

Floor baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and Shasta pompons against a background of greenery and branched candelabra holding lighted tapers, decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of white bridal satin, appliqued with Italian lace, re-embroidered with seed pearls, and fashioned with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline and long sleeves. The A-line skirt trailed into a chapel train from the back waistline, which was accented with a bow. Her elbow length illusion veil was attached to a silk organza cabbage rose, outlined in seed pearls and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Daryl Cox of Franklinville was matron of honor. She wore a pink embroidered street length organza over taffeta dress with fitted bodice, round neckline, and short sleeves. Her headpiece was a matching pink taffeta bow with a short veil and she carried a single blue, long stem carnation.

Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy McVey of Snow Camp; Miss Becky Maness, Asheboro; Miss Jean Gatlin of Franklinville; and Miss Mary Worrell of Lillington.

They wore dresses identical to the matron of honor but blue in color and carried a single long-stem carnation.

Little Cecila Allred of Asheboro, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a blue embroidered organza dress over taffeta and carried a basket of white rose petals.

Master Christopher Reid of Ramseur, half brother of the bridegroom was ringbearer. He carried the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow.

Miss Judy Rodgers of Franklinville registered the guests. She wore a pink sheath dress with a lace over-jacket and black accessories.

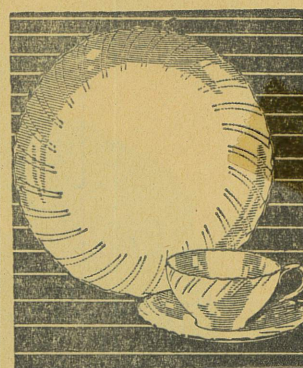

The bridegroom had his stepfather, Victor Reid, as best man. Ushers were Tony Cross of Franklinville, David Phillips of Macclesfield, cousins of the bride, Sidnery Williams of High Point, uncle of the bridegroom and Daryl Cox of Franklinville.

Mrs. Allred chose for her daughter's wedding a pink linen sheath dress with lace bodice and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Reid, wore a medium blue chiffon sheath dress with matching accessories. Both mothers had a white orchid corsage.

For a wedding trip the bride changed to a pale gold silk sheath dress with matching sweater jacket, and a pale gold straw hat and lifted the orchid from her Bible and pinned at her shoulder.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Macclesfield, Elm City, Raleigh, Liberty, Greensboro, Lillington, Shallotte, Lenoir, Granite Falls, High Point, Asheboro; and West Point, Virginia.

After a trip to the western part of North Carolina, the couple will be at home in Shacklefords, Virginia.

Body Of Franklin Roosevelt Laid To Rest In Hyde Park Rose Garden

Molotov May Visit In Capital Pre-Conference Meeting Seen

IN A ROSE GARDEN, Roosevelt Estate, Hyde Park, N. Y., April 15.—(UP)—All that was mortal of Franklin D. Roosevelt was committed today to a simple grave in this sunny garden of his family estate overlooking the Hudson river.

For a brief time, the great of the nation—the new President, the members of the Supreme court, the cabinet, the leaders of Congress, the representatives of foreign powers — were gathered about the opened grave.

Mrs. Roosevelt watched with patrician calm, flanked by her son and daughter, the wives of her three other fighting sons near her.

The grave was prepared in the south lawn of the garden which is enclosed by 12-foot hemlock hedges. The floral pieces from leading figures of the world and the humble neighbors of "the squire," were banked on the north side of the grave. It was a beautiful day which country-loving Franklin D. Roosevelt would have spent in his wooded acres, listening to the birds that chirped all through the service.

300 Present

Shortly before 10 a.m. approximately 300 persons—the President's family, government associates, his friends and neighbors—gathered in the garden. Marines, sailors and soldiers—shoulder to shoulder—lined both sides of the hedge. Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada stepped away from the crowd to lay a small bouquet at the graveside. James A. Farley, a close Roosevelt friend though later a political opponent, talked gravely with Bernard M. Baruch, one of Mr. Roosevelt's closest advisers.

Fala Present

Aged Mrs. James R. Roosevelt, widow of the President's half brother, was led to the graveside and seated in a chair. Miss Margaret Suckley, the President's cousin, came in, leading Fala. A flight of bombers and fighter planes passed overhead.

A few minutes before 10 o'clock, a lone gun in a neighboring field began the slowly measured 21-gun presidential salute which echoed through the Hudson valley. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins listened pensively, her face clouded.

West Point Band

Through the nearby woods, came the strains of "Hail To The Chief," played by the West Point cadet band. The funeral procession was moving up the hillside from the railroad siding and the train which had brought the body and the mourners from Washington. The casket was on a black caisson drawn by brown horses, preceded by the band and 600 cadets and followed by Mrs. Roosevelt and the immediate Roosevelt family and President Truman and his wife and daughter.

As the procession neared the Garden, over the steady, doleful beat of the drums came the soft, sad melody of Chopin's funeral march. The birds still twittered gayly. A frisky rabbit from the nearby woods scampered in and out of the hedge at one end of the garden.

Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace stared at the open grave, his face filled with sorrow.

The band and the cadet corps filed into the garden. Drum ruffles and flourishes, then the ruffles and flourishes, then the band began "The Star Spangled Banner." The casket was lifted from the caisson by eight enlisted men of the armed services and carried to the side of the grave. Walking ahead of the casket was Rev. W. George Anthon, rector of the President's Hyde Park church, who is 76 years old, accompanied by a youthful acolyte, a boy of the village, who carried the parish cross.

Walking slowly and sadly behind the casket were Mrs. Roosevelt, in black, a heavy veil tossed back from her face; her daughter and General Roosevelt. Behind them were the four puffy-eyed daughters-in-law and Lt. Col. John Boettiger, the son-in-law. With them, head characteristically high, was Vice Adm. Wilson Brown, the President's naval aide and one of his close friends.

Trumans Present

Then came the Trumans, their daughter, Mary Margaret, and beside her, James F. Byrnes, close friend and colleague of both the dead President and the new chief executive. The Truman group was flanked by secret service

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—Foreign Commissioner Molotov of Russia is expected to come to Washington and confer with President Truman en route to the San Francisco conference.

Diplomatic officials speculated on such a visit today, as a second gesture by the Russian government toward closing big three ranks following the death of President Roosevelt. The first was Premier Stalin's assent to Mr. Truman's request that Molotov be designated as the soviet representative to the united nations meeting starting April 25.

Busy Week

The prospect of a meeting with Molotov and conferences as well with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain promises a busy week of international affairs for Mr. Truman. His first full week in office will be highlighted tomorrow by a 15-minute address to a joint session of Congress on foreign affairs.

The week also is certain to produce a fairly comprehensive development of policy by the American delegation to the San Francisco conference, whose work was President's

RAMSEUR CHURCH CENSUS ON TODAY

More Than 100 Volunteer
Workers Plan Take Religious
Census Sunday

Ramseur, Feb. 22. — Over 100 people from the four churches in Ramseur will visit the homes in the community this afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 5 o'clock to make a religious survey. Everyone is kindly requested to cooperate in this effort by remaining at home until the workers have called unless it is absolutely necessary to be away, and to be ready to furnish the information requested.

A separate card will be filled out for each individual in every home to obtain the following data: name, address, whether the person is a church member or member of a Sunday school and if so where, what is his or her denominational and local church preference, and whether there are circumstances which make it impossible for the person to attend church or Sunday school. The churches will use this information in seeking to enroll new members in their churches and Sunday schools.

HAD SERVED CHURCH
THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

His Work Had Carried Him
Into Many Communities; Funeral Today

Rev. Joel B. Trogdon, 71, Asheboro, rt. 1, well known minister of the Methodist church, died Saturday morning in a High Point hospital following an illness lasting several months. While his death had been expected for some time, news of his passing came as a distinct shock to his relatives and friends throughout the county.

Mr. Trogdon was the son of the late Tyson and Tabitha Coe Trogdon of Randolph county. He was married August 12, 1894, to Miss Annie E. Howell, and to this union seven children were born. One of the children, Mrs. Moss Spoon, died a few years ago. Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Trogdon, are the following children: Mrs. J. C. Delk, Trinity, rt. 1; Mrs. R. A. Lemmons, Asheboro, rt. 1; Mrs. A. E. Williams, Archdale; Miss Inez Trogdon, of the home; S. E. Trogdon, Asheboro; and J. B. Trogdon, Jr., Asheboro, route 1. Twenty grandchildren, five of whom are in the armed services, also survive, together with one great-grandchild.

Funeral will be held at Giles Chapel church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. S. W. Taylor, superintendent of the Thomasville district of the Methodist church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. A. D. Shelton, of Stokesdale, Rev. C. E. Ridge and Rev. C. H. Hill, both of High Point, and Rev. J. A. Howell of Asheboro. The body will be taken to the church an hour before the hour of service. Interment will be made in the church cemetery.

Mr. Trogdon entered the Methodist ministry in 1910 and served the following churches and chrages: Uwharrie, Denton, Flat Rock, Richland-Why Not, Randleman, Roberta, Guilford and Davidson and at the time of his illness was pastor of the Davidson circuit. He had been superannuated, but took up work again, at his own request, a few months thereafter.

He and Mrs. Trogdon celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on August 12, and during the day and evening, hundreds of relatives and friends gathered to pay them honor. It was about this time that Mr. Trogdon was seriously stricken.

To all who knew him, Mr. Trogdon's death brings a keen personal loss. His life and work were a constant example and reminder of the noble Christian life. Neither bad weather nor the darkness of night kept him from ministering to those who needed him. His gentle nature and sympathetic spirit brought comfort and cheer and a feeling of peace and love into the lives of those whom he contacted in his long and useful ministry in God's kingdom.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Rev. and Mrs. Joel B. Trogdon, of Asheboro, shown here celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage with an informal open house yesterday from 4 to 10 o'clock p. m. Mrs. Trogdon, the former Miss Annie Howell and Rev. Trogdon were married at the home of the bride in Central Falls on August 12, 1894. Rev. Mr. Trogdon entered the ministry of the Methodist church in 1911 and has been quite active in his work since that time.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hughes celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home near Franklinville on Sunday, April 1st. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, natives of Guilford county, moved to Franklinville forty-seven years ago. They have eight children and seventeen grandchildren, all of whom were present for the golden wedding anniversary celebration except one, Mrs. Charles J. Wilson of Trenton, N. J.

FAITH ROCK—Is the name given the huge boulder in the above photo. The rock is located on the west bank of Deep River 200 yards below the bridge that leads into Franklinville from the west. The rock got its name from a legend that Andrew Hunter rode a horse down the sheer face of the rock and into the river to escape a bandit gang led by David Fanning. After spotting Hunter and the horse swimming eastward from the rock one of Fanning's gang is said to have remarked that "he had a lot of faith to ride down that rock."

Story Of Andrew Hunter In Story Of Faith Rock

One of Randolph county's most cherished land marks is the well-known Faith Rock, located 200 yards below the bridge over Deep river at Franklinville.

The legend connected with this rock is another chapter in the brave deeds and the long struggle of the young Republic to throw off the yoke of the British during the Revolutionary war days and establish itself as an independent country.

The story of Faith Rock is the story of Andrew Hunter, well-known Randolph county resident whose daring feat gave rise to the legend and the name of the rock.

According to C. H. Julian, long-time postmaster at Franklinville, and to records kept by the Randolph county Historical society, Hunter gave rise to the legend when he rode a horse down the steep rock into the river and escaped from David Fanning, notorious Tory bandit who wrought death and destruction among the people living along Deep river.

Fanning had been placed in charge of all British marauders in the territory and they were frequently raiding homes, destroying property, stealing provisions for themselves and killing all those who resisted.

Andrew Hunter, an active leader of the patriots, was a man of character and thoroughly hated by Fanning. On several occasions, Fanning was supposed to have captured his most hated enemy only to have him escape through the efforts of friends. On one occasion, Fanning had received word that Hunter would be at a certain mill in Montgomery county. Fanning took his men and rode to the mill but did not find Hunter.

A farmer living near the mill had spotted Fanning's men approaching and proceeded to hide Hunter under some sacks of corn. The bandits questioned the farmer and became suspicious when he evaded their questions. A search began and Hunter's hiding place was discovered and Fanning decided to kill his enemy on the spot.

At this point, C. H. Julian says that Fanning's men found food in Hunter's wagon and asked that the killing wait until after they had eaten. Fanning agreed. As the men sat down to eat, Hunter began casting about for a chance to escape. Standing nearby was Fanning's blooded horse, Red Doe. While the group paid little attention to him, Hunter began moving slowly toward the horse. Suddenly he sprang upon the horse's back amid the excitement and shooting of the bandits. Fanning yelled to his men to "kill the rascal but spare the Mare" thereby probably saving the life of his enemy.

Cursing their luck, Fanning and his men quickly mounted their horses and gave chase. Hunter, knowing that there was only one river crossing within a few miles, made for it only to find that Fanning's men had taken another route and had arrived ahead of him. Hunter turned his horse up stream where he soon discovered that even the longer route was also cut off by some of Fanning's men.

There was only one remaining avenue to escape and this seemed to offer certain death. This was the huge boulder that sloped down to the river at a 80 degree angle. He might be able to ride down this rock into the water and make his escape. He was sure that to remain in his present position meant death at the hands of Fanning's gang. So with his usual contempt for Fanning, Hunter stuck spurs to Red Doe and plunged 60 feet down the steep rock into the river. So amazed were Fanning and his men that they allowed Hunter to make his escape without firing a shot.

Even to this day, the prints of Hunter's horse's hooves may be seen on the rock according to Julian and others around Franklinville.

In 1928, the Guilford Battle chapter of the D. A. R. erected a plaque on the concrete bridge over the river as a memorial to Hunter and other patriots of the period. The bridge was also named for Hunter and the plaque reads, "In Memorial, Randolph county patriots. Faith Rock, 200 yards down the river is where Andrew Hunter in 1781, escaped from David Fanning, Tory, rode Fanning's horse, Red Doe, down the rock into the river and to safety."

Regan-Ferree Vows Spoken In Idaho

Greensboro Daily News Bureau
106 1/2 W. Washington. Telephone 2873

HIGH POINT, July 14. — Miss Rosemary Regan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William V. Regan, of Boise, Idaho, became the bride of Lt. Hobart Garland Ferree, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Ferree, of High Point, in a ceremony performed July 6. The Rev. Father J. J. Creegan, officiated at the ceremony performed at St. Mary's Catholic church, Boise.

The bride, given in marriage by Reilly Atkinson, wore a gown of white satin fashioned with fitted bodice, a heart-shaped neckline, and long sleeves. The skirt of tulle was embroidered with seed pearls. Her floor length veil fell from a cap of rose point lace and orange blossoms. She carried a spray of gardenias with streamers of white butterfly orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reilly Atkinson. The couple left for the Regan summer home where they will stay until Lieutenant Ferree reports to Ft. Douglas, Utah, for reassignment.

The bride is a graduate of St. Teresa's academy, the Dominican college, San Rafael, Calif., and is a member of the Boise Junior League.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and recently returned from duty with the Eighth air force in England.

Trio Of Randolph Eagle Scouts

The three boys shown in the above picture received their Eagle badges at the Randolph District Court of Honor held in Franklinville Friday night. This award represents the highest achievement in Scouting, and an average of only one out of one thousand Boy Scouts reach this high plane.

The Scout on the left is W. C. Jones, son of Mrs. Ila Jones, of 311 Home Avenue, Asheboro, and is a member of Troop No. 527, of which George White is Scoutmaster.

The Scout in the center is Ralph Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Jones, Franklinville, and is a member of Troop No. 570. The Scout shown on the right is Lloyd Craven, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Craven, Franklinville, and is also a member of Troop No. 570. It is rather unusual for two members of a troop to receive this award in a single Court of Honor. The Scoutmaster of this troop is Yates Holland.

Randolph Servicewoman Returns From War Area

Capt. Shirley McCorquodale Wins Bronze Star In Pacific

Greensboro Daily News Bureau, Stedman Building, Telephone 670

ASHEBORO, Aug. 4.—After 39 months overseas with the army nurses corps and laden with ribbons, including the Bronze Star medal, Randolph county's first servicewoman, young Capt. Shirley McCorquodale, of Franklinville, has returned home. Although her overseas duty consisted of caring for the wounded and ailing, she comes home as a malarial patient.

Captain McCorquodale, a registered nurse, was in Cincinnati when war broke out in Europe and believing that the United States would become involved, she wrote her father that she was entering the army nurses corps in December, 1939.

Following duty at Ft. Benning, Ga., and previous service with the regular army nurses' corps, Captain McCorquodale went to Australia with the 33rd surgical unit in March, 1942. She was stationed near Brisbane until October of the following year. From a post located on a supply road to Darwin, then under construction as a phase of Australia's defense, she went to New Guinea by hospital ship but later made the trip by plane.

Three Sisters In Service

One of three sisters in service—Sgt. Virginia, at Camp Shelby, Miss., and Cpl. Evangeline, at Camp Edwards, Mass., both WACs—the captain remained in New Guinea for one year and experienced 10 enemy bombing attacks during the Finschhafen and Hollandia campaigns. Her hospital unit, one of two there, was at the end of one of the allied landing strips in New Guinea and was filled with marine casualties from New Britain and Guadalcanal.

From New Guinea, she went to the Netherlands East Indies, where her unit in October, 1944, had the only nurses in the area. In March, 1945, she went to the Philippines, soon after the invasion of Luzon, for which campaign she received the Philippines Liberation ribbon with battle star.

It was here, June 6, that the commanding general of the Eighth army—Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, presented her with a citation and the Bronze Star medal. "He said I was the first woman he ever decorated," the captain recalled.

Captain McCorquodale is one of five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Neill McCorquodale, of Franklinville.

Boone Reports 828 Students

Sixty-Seven Counties In State Represented

(Special to Daily News)
BOONE, Aug. 4.—With the second summer school at Appalachian State Teachers college well under way and entrance registrations closed, 828 students have enrolled. Sixty-seven counties in North Carolina and 13 states are represented. The states showing largest out-of-state enrollments are Georgia, 55; Florida, 150; and South Carolina, 212.

According to college training and to present college work, they are divided into several groups: those holding bachelor's degrees, 362; those also holding master's degrees, 46; those enrolled in the graduate department of the summer school, 104; and those without degrees, 466. The number of women enrolled is 764; the number of men, 64. With reference to former college training, 168 colleges and universities are represented.

Virtually every student here is an active teacher or is preparing to teach.

Strike Total Jumps To Over 80,000

(By The Associated Press)
The nation's idle workers jumped 20,000 yesterday bringing the total to more than 80,000 and ending a week in which the figures rose from the lowest in several weeks to almost the highest.

Biggest addition was at Cincinnati, Ohio, where a walkout of Wright Aeronautical corporation employees variously estimated between 4,000 and 10,000 virtually closed the plant, idling some 23,000 workers.

First American Invasion Dead Buried In Britain

Mourners Absent At First Services; Steam Shovel Opens Mass Graves

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE

BROOKWOOD AMERICAN CEMETERY, England, June 10.—(AP)—The first American dead from the terrible battle across the channel rested tonight beneath British soil.

Rows of flag-covered caskets of brown, polished wood lay at the bottom of mass graves opened by a steel-jawed steam shovel.

As a double column of officers and enlisted men led by five chaplains approached in a slow march, the English operator of the steam shovel stood silently in his cab, his hand clutching his cap, his black hair blowing in the wind.

There was nothing to mark this as anything but another military funeral, but it seemed to drive home with cruel sharpness the increased tempo of war on the French coast.

A Beautiful Spot.

With Capt. Sumner Johnson, United States Ninth air force chaplain of Terryville, Conn., I drove to this cemetery. It must be one of the most beautiful in the world. Here lie American dead from the first world war. Here in the gently-rolling hills where the grass always is green and towering pines scent the breeze, will lie the dead from this war until they are moved home.

There were no mourners inside the rhododendron-bounded cemetery save one. An English girl, her eyes red and puffy from weeping, stood in the road a few feet away, and chewed nervously at a wrinkled handkerchief. She wore a rough leather coat, no hat, and no stockings. One of the Americans was her husband.

Another was a flier, a P-38 pilot. From his base somewhere in England four of the twin-tailed craft dipper near the small group. Flying in perfect echelon, their engines muffled, they circled once and disappeared.

Another American I knew. He was the crew chief aboard a troop carrier plane riddled by ground fire beyond the bridgehead on Cherbourg peninsula Tuesday night.

Catholic and Protestant.

Capt. R. F. Grady, Philadelphia, Pa., read the Catholic service. Maj. F. J. Smeltzer, Shamokin, Pa., began the Protestant service with Scripture. There was a prayer by Lt. Ford Gilbert, Long Beach, Calif. The raw wind gusting from the skies drowned out the words and we could only catch parts:

"I am the resurrection . . ."

Capt. Frank H. Lash, navy chaplain of Clovis, N. M., said a prayer and read from the Bible. Capt. John A. Moore, Lake Helen, Fla., and Lt. Dezil Carty, New York, also were in the service.

We stood at attention and saluted while a firing squad set the hills echoing with three volleys.

Cpl. Joseph Ferlazzo, Clearfield, Pa., sounded taps. Swelling and then fading as the wind rose and died came the answering taps from the far side of the hill, where the flag stood at half-mast before the white chapel with its ivy-clad columns. They came from the bugle of Sgt. Herbert E. Thompson, Iliou, N. Y.

The Girl Still There.

We marched away, eyes straight ahead and the silence broken only by the cadenced crunch of heels into gravel walks. The flag still was at half-mast as we climbed into our jeeps and trucks, and an officer explained:

"The flag remains at half-mast so long as there are unburied dead inside the cemetery."

I took one last look as we headed toward the gate. The English girl stood at the edge of the still-open grave, her hands shoved deep into her pockets.

The steam shovel wheeled ponderously and clawed up a scoopful of sodden earth.

Bushy Fork Soldier Is Declared Dead

(Special to Daily News)

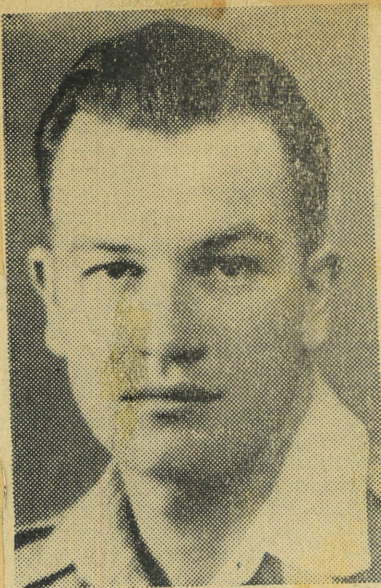

ROXBORO, June 9.—William E. Broach, Jr., of Bushy Fork, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Broach, missing in action since the fall of Corregidor two years ago last month, has been officially declared as dead, according to a message received last week by the family from the war department.

Broach, in the Philippines for some months before Pearl Harbor, may have been the first casualty reported from Person county in this war. His family believes he may still be alive, but no word has been received from him in over two years.

POSTHUMOUS AWARD.

ROXBORO, June 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Rueben M. Jackson, of Roxboro, parents of Pvt. Francis Moore Jackson, who died in Italy March 15, from wounds received in action, have received the Purple Heart posthumously awarded to him. Their only son, who was at home last Christmas, was a graduate of Roxboro high school. In Italy he was with the parachute infantry.

Killed In Action

Sgt. William A. Grimes, 23, U. S. Army Air Corps, (above) was killed on May 12 in China. Sgt. Grimes was the husband of Mrs. Louise Wilson Grimes of Ramseur and the son of Mrs. Kittle Grimes and the late R. R. Grimes of Franklinville. He entered the service Nov. 4, 1942, and was sent overseas in October, 1943, and had served in North Africa, India and China. Sgt. Grimes was serving with the ground crew of the army air force in China at the time of his death.

RECENT FURLOUGH

Cpl. James W. Russell spent a recent furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Russell, and friends in Randleman. He is stationed at Camp Hale, Colorado. Before entering the service in December, 1942, he was employed as a knitter at Commonwealth Hosiery Mill at Randleman. Cpl. Russell's brother, Maurice Russell, is serving overseas in England with the U. S. armed forces.

RESOLUTIONS

Of Respect For Sgt. William A. Grimes, Adopted By Asheboro Post Of 1159, Veterans Of Foreign War Of The United States.

WHEREAS: the many friends and relatives of Sgt. William A. Grimes were plunged into dark depths of despair, grief and sorrow by the violent and untimely death in China, May 12th, of this their friend and loved one, and our comrade, and knowing that he gave his life nobly, gallantly and heroically while serving with the armed forces of the United States in defense of freedom and the way of life we all hold dear. His activities here on earth are over but he will ever live in the memory of his fellowmen, and especially will he be remembered by the members of the Asheboro Post 1159 Veterans of Foreign Wars, of which he was a true and faithful member.

Because of our great love and esteem for this our comrade, we the members of Asheboro Post 1159 Veterans of Foreign Wars do hereby resolve;

FIRST: That because of William's good deeds, his great strength of character, his faithfulness to all noble causes and his loyalty to our post, we will continue to remember his activities among us and will write his faults upon the shifting sands and his virtues upon the tablet of loving memory, and we'll strive to so live that we may meet him in that Upper and perfect Encampment.

SECOND: That we extend our

Purple Heart Is Awarded Soldier Killed In China

The Purple Heart has been awarded posthumously to Sgt. William A. Grimes, killed in China on May 12, according to his wife, Mrs. Louise Grimes, of Ramseur, who was notified by Secretary of War Stimson.

Sgt. Grimes was serving with a ground crew of the Army Air Force when he was killed. After entering the service in November, 1942, he went overseas in October, 1943, serving in North Africa, India and China.

Randolph Man With One Firm 64 Years

By BRADLEY LONG.

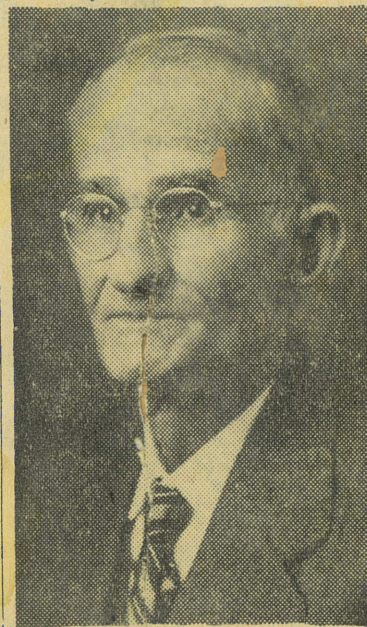

FRANKLINVILLE, May 1. — It was in April, 1879, that a 13-year old youth went to work with a Franklinville Manufacturing company. Today, 64 years later, that youth is a 77-year-old man and still working for the company, now known as Randolph Mills, incorporated.

William D. Maner, known in his community of Franklinville as "Uncle Billy," has a record that probably no other man in North Carolina can boast. At least, Franklinville citizens make that claim.

During that span of years, Uncle Billy has done everything in the mill but run the books and type-writers. He has been spinner, doffer, oiler, card runner, grinder, mechanic and engineer. He was nine years superintendent of the card room at No. 2 mill; steam engineer 16 years; spinning room foreman; and master mechanic, his present job over both No. 1 and No. 2 mills, for 25 years.

His life, on the surface, looks like a jumble of figures: Mayor of Franklin for two terms; magistrate two terms; a Mason 54 years (he wears a 50-year service badge) and past grand master, junior warden, and for 30 years treasurer; superintendent of the Franklinville Methodist church Sunday school

(now with a lifetime provision); teacher of the Philathea class 25 years and still teaching; member of the Franklinville Eastern Star four several years, a steward 40 years

years before it folded; now a five-year member of the Randolph Chapter 210, O. E. S.; a matter of something like 220 years.

His life, under the surface, is simply summed up in the words of W. P. Ward, general superintendent of Randolph Mills: "You can't say too much about Uncle Billy. He's as loyal, conscientious, likable as you'll ever find."

Uncle Billy, in all his years of service to Franklinville in various capacities, has never taken a vacation and has lost less than two months in 64 years because of sickness, and most of that this past winter with a touch of pneumonia. But he's on the job—in fact, he walked about a quarter of a mile just to get a picture he was asked for—still going steadily, won't quit. He's refused retirement, and will until he can't work. "I'd be like a fish out of water without my work," he says. He's never been given testimonials, honors. But he isn't worried about that.

His wife died about 13 years ago and he lives now with one of his sons and his wife. He has two sons working with Randolph Mills, G. H. Maner, an electrician, and H. E. Maner, a doffer.

His only theory about such loyalty to job as his record shows is merely that he likes to work and puts his job first always.

FRANK H. BURROW.

ASHEBORO, Jan. 1.—Frank H. Burrow, 76, died in Barnes-Griffin clinic here this afternoon after an illness of a few days. Funeral will be held at Brower's Chapel Methodist church, near Asheboro, at 2 p. m. Monday with burial in the church cemetery. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Fletcher King, of Troy, and several nieces and nephews.

IN MEMORY

The passing of Mrs Cornelia Thomas from us is a source of keen sorrow. Even, I a stranger, have realized that her going has left a void that will not be easily filled. I didn't know her, but surely the tribute I could pay "Granny Thomas", as she was affectionately known, would be the finest because it is based on what the people say of her. She loved humanity and was, in turn, loved by all who knew her. Her home was an open house of friendship and kindness. She was never too busy to lend a helping hand or a sympathetic ear to those in trouble. We should not mourn for "Granny Thomas" but rejoice that she is having the reward of the "Blessed".

"Sunset and Evening Star,
And one clear call for me
And may there be no moaning
at the bar
When I put out to sea!"

MISS BELLE DOVE

continued at the same place, never changing, although the mills and their management have experienced many changes since she first left them. In fact, the original Island Ford mill has been entirely torn away and replaced by the modern mill which now stands in its place, known as Randolph Mills, Incorporated, No. 2.

"There have been many changes in textile industry since I began to work," she says. "The first mills were in the main propelled by cumbersome water wheels, called the 'overshod.' Later, these were replaced by the turbine wheels which were much more satisfactory. Now, we are living in an age of electricity, and as a result of its use in turning machines, our productive capacity has increased several hundred per cent. The early mills had only about 25 or 30 looms, and now it is not uncommon for them to have as high as several hundred. Years ago, during the reconstruction days of the civil war, 40 cents a day was considered an extremely high price for cotton mill employees, and you were lucky if you were ever allowed any cash, because the manager ran a 'sort of commissary,' and you were compelled to trade out your monthly earnings with the company. Mill employees today do not undergo the strenuous manual toil that they once did. Modern improvements in the machines have been added until practically all of the drudgery has been eliminated, and we are 'sort of supervisors' of the respective jobs."

Asked if she thought that cotton mill work was detrimental to one's physical and mental capacity, due to the mills being kept intact, and to the continual routine of the work, she replied with an emphatic "no." "Everywhere is seen the signs of 'specialism,'" she says, and this is more in evidence than in the cotton mill business. There, you are given a particular task to perform, and you become habituated to your work to such an extent that you desire to remain at the same task and the same machine indefinitely. I decided in 1921 that I would retire—not because of any physical ailments or anything, but that I had worked long enough, but the desire to resume my task became too great, and am enjoying my work as much today as in the days of my youth. Taking care of one's physical well-being is an individual problem, and the reason for many ills attendant upon mill workers is due to the carelessness and indifference of the workers after working hours. You see, the mills are kept intact and closed during work hours, and people do not take the proper precaution by protecting themselves from the cold air when leaving their work whistles, called the 'overshod.' Later, these were replaced by the turbine wheels which were much more satisfactory. Now, we are living in an age of electricity, and as a result of its use in turning machines, our productive capacity has increased several hundred per cent. The early mills had only about 25 or 30 looms, and now it is not uncommon for them to have as high as several hundred. Years ago, during the reconstruction days of the civil war, 40 cents a day was considered an extremely high price for cotton mill employees, and you were lucky if you were ever allowed any cash, because the manager ran a 'sort of commissary,' and you were compelled to trade out your monthly earnings with the company. Mill employees today do not undergo the strenuous manual toil that they once did. Modern improvements in the machines have been added until practically all of the drudgery has been eliminated, and we are 'sort of supervisors' of the respective jobs."

To the query, "Are you also worried over this so-called jazz and moving pictures?" she responded in the affirmative. "I am entirely too fast this day and age," she said. "When I was growing girls entertained their sweethearts in the living room, around the open fireplace, where the parents of the girl censored and approved everything that was said or done. Now there is none of that old southern modesty and discretion, which characterized the girls of olden times. The old fashioned parlor and sitting room has been transferred to pneumatic tires, and girls are no longer able to talk without the seclusion of an automobile and the hum of a motor. Roll-your-owns, and cigarettes characterize the girl of today, and I can not help but think of the future motherhood of this country. It is all due to the conditions of the times, and we cannot lay it to their original nature. With regard to young men, I don't believe there is as much drinking as there used to be. I can well remember when large numbers of young men had to lay out of the mills several days in the week due to drunkenness. One thing that prohibition has done is to keep drunkards from the public gaze if nothing more."

Although Miss Dove has been constantly working in the mills since her early childhood, she has not failed to make use of her educational, social and civic duties. In her cozy little cottage home, may be found a versatile distribution of books, magazines and papers, which inform her on world problems and tendencies. She is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and is as dutiful in attendance and support as she is in her work in the mill. Although never having married, she has by her skill and foresight accumulated a neat little sum, which will insure her independence and comfort during a ripe old age.

Mass Rites Held For U. S. Dead In Beachhead Cemetery

An American Beachhead Cemetery, France, June 9. — (Delayed) — Stretched out on their backs with their pitiful personal belongings lying beside them on this bomb-blasted, shell-scorched bit of the Normandy beach lie the American dead — men and boys who paid the supreme price for wresting this strongly fortified position from the Nazis in a daring daylight amphibious assault.

They lie here mutely waiting while troops dig long trenches for temporary mass burial. Nearby, also awaiting burial are the bodies of 10 Germans and two Britons.

Negro troops digging these common graves labor silently with an occasional awed glance at the stiff forms under the white covers that had been thrown over them.

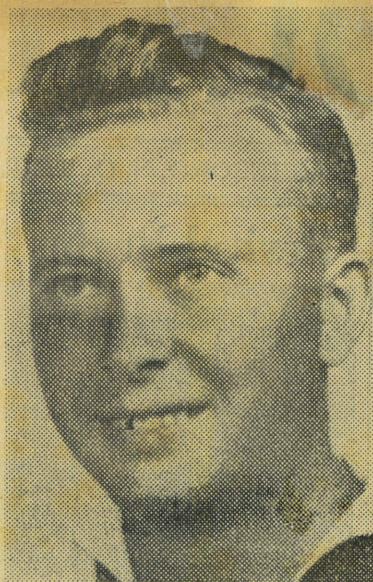

This is America's first cemetery in France in this war. It is not a pretentious place. A few days ago it was a German minefield separating the beach defenses from the rugged pill boxes and forts in a steep hill that rises a few hundred yards from the ugly, rock strewn beaches.

When the Americans swarmed onto the beaches through murderous surf, angry German guns mowed them down. The cold greedy water of the wrathful channel, lashed by D-day wind, clutched at some, sucking them down.

This battle was so fierce that our grave registration officers — men who bury the dead and tell the folks home about them — had to spend most of their time in foxholes. When the enemy retreated into the hills these officers gathered their weary men and began bringing bodies to this place — where the green grass is turned black from the fury of high explosives.

Pvt. "Eddie" Wills Describes Fighting Before Cassino, Italy

Pfc. Edwin Wills, known to his friends and buddies as "Eddie," is with the Field Artillery in the Fifth army in Italy and has been since August, 1943. "Eddie" is the son of Mrs. W. H. Payne, formerly of Asheboro, now of Newport News, Va. His mother sends the Courier-Tribune a letter written by him on May 11 from Italy, before the German resistance was broken before Cassino. In the letter, "Eddie" tells of the hard fighting around the place.

His letter follows:

Italy,
May 11

Dearest Mother:

Will write you a little news if you want to hear it. You've probably read a lot of different stories about this war, but this is only one more.

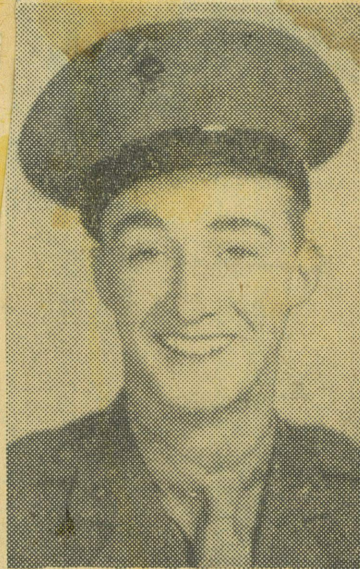

The censor says it's O. K. to write about the "Battle of Cassino." Most of what I can write, the reporters have written. Those correspondents had a lot of material out of that, for Cassino was pretty tough. As you know the town itself sits in the side of a mountain and is across a valley with a river in front of it. The valley we nicknamed "The Purple Heart Valley." I some times wonder how the "Doughfoot" ever crossed the thing (They didn't only at night.) Being in the artillery I didn't cross the valley myself, but I could see it plenty of days, so near and yet so far. The going was tough there all the way, but it really was tough after the bombing of the abbey on Monastery Hill. The Germans were in there before the bombing. Our bombing was so good they had to send reinforcements up to hold it, and they made it even stronger than Cassino itself. We have fired a lot of rounds into and made rubble out of the town, but the Jerries learned from the Russians at Stalingrad to make a real fortress out of a place like that. They did it. Our troops fought there inch by inch, rock by rock, with the Germans determined to hold. I can really say why it wasn't taken and you know, after all, it's our first setback since Kasserine Pass in North Africa in 1942, but it wasn't a setback for we do hold most of the town. It was pretty awful up there and I guess it really wasn't worth it right then. Anyway it's over now and Cassino, I know, will be one for the history book. The thing that impressed me was the way we stuck it out there and gave them back a lot more than we had to take.

There's an awful lot of dead Jerries that won't bother us when we start to Berlin again. Things are rocking along the same old way. We do get to see a show now and then, still get out P. X. and occasional coke. Irving Berlin's show, "This Is The Army," is here and I hope to see it. So you can see how tough this war is over here. Mother, it's no picnic at all.

Must close for now, Mother. Answer soon. Don't worry too much. I'm in good health.

All my love,
EDDIE

DIES OF WOUNDS.

Pfc. Colon A. Pilkenton, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Pilkenton, of Franklinville, who received shrapnel wounds June 16 in the battle for Saipan, died the next day aboard ship and was buried at sea, his parents have been informed. Pilkenton, who enlisted in the marine corps October 8, 1942, went overseas in January of this year and was in combat on Kwajalein and Namur islands in the Marshalls before the invasion of Saipan. He is survived by his parents and one sister, Norma Pilkenton, of the home.

Full-Scale Balkan Warfare Is Forecast Sooner Or Later

Hitler, Like Trapped Rat, Is Kept Fooled By Allies As They Plan Mid-Eastern Drive

By SEYMOUR BERKSON
INS Managing Editor

Something is brewing in the Balkans. From this witches' cauldron of Europe, ominous vapors are emerging. They foreshadow the thunder of a new war front.

When and where the first explosion will come is anybody's guess.

Virtually all military observers agree, however, that sooner or later there will be full-scale warfare in the Balkans.

It may come before, during, or after other allied landings on the continent.

There is plenty of evidence that Hitler is aware of the approaching storm and that he knows he is as vulnerable as he is hated in the Balkan countries.

After his Russian experiences, he is relying on something more than intuition in his present frantic moves to fortify and bolster his defenses at the easternmost end of the Mediterranean. In fact, der fuhrer is behaving like a trapped rat, running to and fro in quest of protection.

Massed Behind Turkey.

The powerful British Ninth and 10th armies have been massed in Syria and Iran just behind the frontiers of Turkey.

They have been augmented by more than 100,000 Polish troops, who were freed from Russian prison camps, re-equipped and organized into six hard-hitting divisions. These troops will give a good account of themselves when they have an opportunity to settle their score with Hitler.

The allied forces are linked by a solid line of communications around the southeastern banks of the Mediterranean to the British middle east forces stationed in Palestine, Egypt, and Libya.

They are backed by growing air power. And in the heavily fortified island of Cyprus, they have an important advance base on Turkey's left flank. Ankara recently reported the arrival of "heavy armed military reinforcements" at Cyprus.

In addition to the aerial supply lines stretching across Africa, the allied forces are close to the American supply base on the Persian gulf near Basra, headquarters of the southern route for shipments to soviet Russia.

Turkey remains the key to allied strategy in the Balkans.

Turkey Turns to Allies.

Though technically still neutral, line where feverish fortification work has been under way.

As another move to bolt nazidom's backdoor, Hitler is said to have dispatched some crack motorized divisions to Greece.

British Bases Near.

A glance at the map of the Balkan area reveals that even if Turkey remains neutral, there are many adjacent routes for an allied invasion in that theater.

The British island of Cyprus is only 240 miles from the nearest of Italy's Dodecanese islands—natural stepping stones to Thrace.

Britain's powerful naval and air base at Alexandria is 520 miles from the main port of Greece at Piraeus on the outskirts of Athens. Port Said at the entrance to the Suez canal is also a convenient springboard.

The Egyptian port of Matruh, recaptured by the British Eighth army in its dramatic drive across North Africa from El Alamein, has been put back into service and may figure prominently in any Balkan offensive.

Only 200 miles from Crete—main bastion of the nazi ring of defenses protecting Greece—is the port of Tobruk which has been completely reconducted by the British. Twenty-five miles closer to Crete than Tobruk is Derna on the hump of Cyrenaica.

Benghazi is 340 miles from the tip of Greece, while Tripoli is about 550 miles from the nearest point on the Greek peninsula.

Even if Turkey goes to war on the allied side and the main invasion thrust is launched through Turkish territory, all of the above Mediterranean bases will be likely to play an important role.

Only recently, a Turkish military mission made a detailed tour of North African bases and conferred with leaders of the British Eighth army.

In turn, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander of Britain's middle east forces, visited Ankara and held a series of staff talks with the Turkish general staff. When he was asked by the press about German preparations in the Balkans, he replied:

"We're keeping them guessing. And the more they guess, the more it's in our favor."

While Hitler has been trying to guess where and when the Balkan explosion will come, he has also been trying to make his satellite slave states share the military burdens a new front will entail.

During the past few weeks, he has called in one after another of his Balkan puppets in an apparent effort to make them furnish cannon fodder for whatever new front develops in the Balkans.

He "conferred" with:

(1) King Boris of Bulgaria, No. 1 target for an allied invasion if Turkey joins the war against the axis. That popular feeling in Boris' realm is running high against the nazis was indicated recently when Sotir Janeff, pro-nazi chief of the Bulgarian parliament's foreign affairs committee, was assassinated.

(2) Premier Antonescu of Rumania, which has already contributed heavily to Hitler's cannon fodder on the Russian front.

(3) Regent Horthy of Hungary, still a somewhat "reluctant dragon" in the axis menagerie of Balkan states but nonetheless a captive.

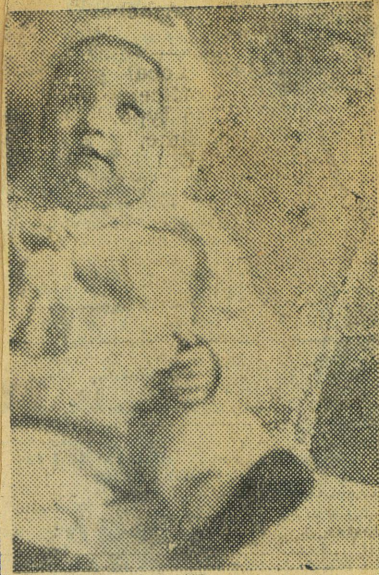

As a sop to his puppets, Hitler mapped plans for a special Balkan high command to include Bulgarian, Rumanian, and Hungarian staff officers as well as a picked group of German generals.

Regardless of what the puppets do, the people of Bulgaria, Rumania, and Hungary are not likely to offer much resistance to an allied army once it starts rolling through the Balkans. And in Greece, the allies can count on active support from every able-bodied Greek who can join them and avenge the barbaric treatment of Greece by the nazis.

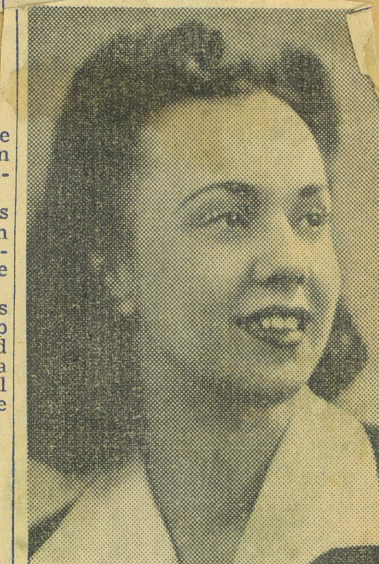

From neighboring Yugoslavia, active co-operation will also come from the valiant guerrilla warriors of General Mihailovich.

They have been holding out against all odds for the day when they can come down from their mountain strongholds and join hands with the allies in a final push on Berlin.

Lt. V.S. White Missing In North Africa

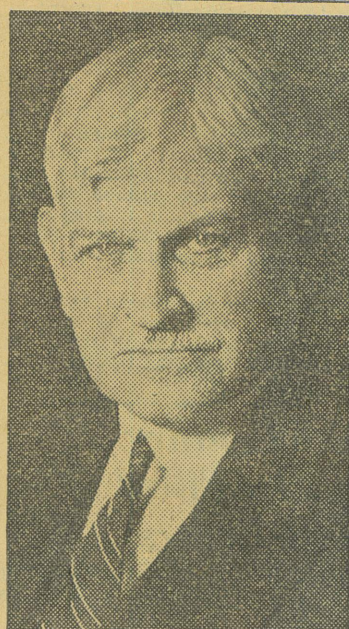

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. White, of route 1, High Point, have been notified that their son, Lt. Virgil Spencer White, 23, is missing in action in North Africa. The last communication received by his parents, dated April 5, stated "we are doing fine over here." Lieutenant White formerly resided in Greensboro, his parents moving near to Jamestown, where he attended high school.

The missing aviator was a pilot of one of the Lightning P-38s and member of a group of fliers credited with 85 enemy planes in two days of fighting on the Tunisian front recently.

Lieutenant White entered the service at Ft. Bragg in 1939 and was sent to Kelly Field, Texas, where he graduated from the aviation school and was commissioned in March of last year. He had been overseas since last September.

YOUNG RAMSEUR BUSINESS LEADER CALLED BY DEATH

Jesse C. Craven, Textile Executive, Church And Civic Leader, Succumbs

FUNERAL YESTERDAY

Jesse C. Craven, 35, prominent Ramseur textile executive, civic and church leader, died early Friday morning in the Randolph Hospital, Inc., Asheboro, from the effects of burns received two weeks previously. Mr.
Craven, superintendent of the Columbia Manufacturing Company, Ramseyur, was injured Saturday, July 11, in testing the wiring of a new elevator which had been installed in the plant. He was severely shocked and burned by the high voltage. He was brought to the local hospital at once for treatment.

Mr. Craven, a son of Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Craven of Ramseyur, was a graduate of Duke University, a former president of the Randolph County Duke Alumni
Association, and of the Ramseyur Lions club. He was chairman of the Ramseyur town council, a director in the Ramseyur Building and Loan Association, and chief of the Ramseyur fire department.

In addition to these activities and his duties at the plant, Mr.
Craven was active in every phase of church and civic activity. He was active, aggressive and was looked upon as a leader not only in his community, but in the county as a whole. He was a member of the Ramseyur Methodist church and Sunday school, having professed faith in Christ as a boy. In the church, as elsewhere, he was a leader and a worker.

He was married to Miss Frances Whitehead of Ramseyur, who survives him, together with a son, Jesse C. Craven, Jr. He leaves also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Craven, and one brother, Alton W. Craven of Ram-seur.

Funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Ramseur Methodist church in the presence of a large and sorrowing congregation. Interment was in the Ramseyur cemetery.

Last rites were in charge of Dr. J. E. Pritchard, pastor of the Ramseyur Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Paul Hardin,
Jr., pastor of the First Methodist church, Asheboro.

Pallbearers were J. T. Brady,
Penn Stout, Dr. C. A. Graham,
Carl Anderson, Fred Thomas, J.
O. Gray, Braxton Craven and R.
C. White. Honorary pallbearers were members of the Lions club.
Mrs. J. T. Brady of Ramseyur and Mrs. Anna Wray of Sanford were in charge of the flowers.

at Franklinville Methodist church,
with burial in Gray's Chapel Methodist church cemetery. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A.
C. Brower, of Seagrove, route 1;
four sons, E. A. and E. S. Thomas, of Franklinville, and J. A. and C. B.
Thomas, of High Point; 30 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

MRS. EDNA THOMAS.

Funeral for Mrs. Edna Cox
Thomas, 54, Franklinville, who died at 7:45 p. m. Saturday at St. Leo's hospital after an illness of two weeks, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. at Franklinville Baptist church by Rev. P. C. Gantt, pastor, and Dr. J. E. Pritchard, pastor of Franklinville Methodist church.
Interment will follow in the church cemetery.

Miss Pauline Brown Died Sunday, 6th

Randleman, Jan. 7.—Miss Pauline Silva Brown died at her home in Randleman, Sunday, January 6. Surviving her are her father and mother,
Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Brown; one sister, Lucille; two brothers, Hal and Billie, all of Randleman; also many other relatives.

Miss Brown was born at Central Falls, Dec. 24, 1910, but had made her home here with her parents practically all her life. She was a member of St. Paul's M. E. church. With twenty-eight other high school graduates, Pauline graduated from Randleman high school in May 1928.

W. C. HENSON HANGS SELF IN RANDOLPH

Body of Farmer-Carpenter Is Found In Barn Loft At Home Near Ramseyur.

(Special to Daily News)

RAMSEUR, July 29.—The body of W. C. Henson, 63, Randolph county farmer and carpenter, was found hanging from a rope in the loft of his barn at his home, Franklinville, route 1, this afternoon.

Dr. J. L. Fritts, county coroner, investigated the death and said it was a suicide with no inquest necessary. He said the body was found by Henson's brother, C. E. Henson, a niece, Mrs. Ruby Henson Beaver, and Milt Allred.

Dr. Fritts said Henson left no note indicating cause of his self-destruction, but it was reported to him there had been domestic difficulties.

He said Henson left his home
this morning for Randolph mills at Franklinville where he was employed as carpenter, but he was an hour late because he had failed to set his clock to conform with daylight saving time. At the mill, he was told to go home and report back Tuesday for a full day's work.

On his way home, Henson stopped at his brother's home and talked for a while with his sister-in-law, Mrs. C. E. Henson, who said he appeared in good spirits
when he left there.

A search was started for Mr.
Henson when he failed to return home by dinner time.

Mr. Henson was married for the second time about a month ago to Miss Annie Cox. His first wife,
Mrs. Margaret Lou Kivett Henson, died three years ago.

Surviving are his second wife;
six daughters, Mrs. Rachel Whitley,
Mrs. Madge Nelson, Misses Fannie,
Elizabeth and Margaret Henson, all of Greensboro, and Miss Florence Henson, of near Asheboro; four sons, J. Frank and Causey Henson, Greensboro, Arenton and Fred Henson, Long Island, N. Y.; one grandchild; two brothers, C. E. Henson, Franklinville, route 1, and D. C.
Henson, Revolution Station, and two sisters, Mrs. Maudie Spoon and Mrs. Addie Beaver, Greensboro.

Funeral will be held at Pleasant Ridge Christian church, three miles south of Ramseyur, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in church cemetery.

road track were conducted in the Methodist Episcopal church Monday at 1 o'clock by Revs. W. A. Elam and J. W. Hoyle in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

Mr. Kimrey was the purchasing agent for George Butler, Greensboro produce dealer, and was very popular and successful. He was a young man of the highest type of Christian character and was loved and esteemed by all who knew him. It is said that one of the last business transactions
he had before leaving on his fatal trip was paying his pastor.

Pallbearers were George Craven, Ernest Routh, C. L. Allred, Harvey Pil-kinton, Charlie Pruitt and A. M.
Welch. The large and beautiful array of flowers bespoke the affection and regard of a large circle of friends. Interment was in White's Chapel cemetery.

STORY OF THE FAMILY

(Special to Daily News.)
Liberty, Oct. 22.—Old Richland Lutheran church near Liberty, organized in 1792, was the scene of a reunion of the descendants of Henry Louis Lutterloh Sunday. About 250 people were present to hear recited the early history of the Lutterloh, Fox and Smith families, which clans constitute the major portion of the descendants of Henry Louis Lutterloh.

This man came from Germany through England to America about 180. While in England he married a lady by the name of Gretum. To his union were born three sons, Charles, Henry and Louis. The first was born in England, the second on the ocean and the third in North Carolina. The third son Louis became a wealthy man, possessing near 1000 acres of land and 60 odd slaves.

The father of these boys settled in Chatham county near what is now the town of Silk Hope and quite a few of his descendants are still residing in that vicinity while others may be found in Fayetteville, Florida and a few of the western states.

The early history of this man also showed that an uncle of his settled in what is now the town of Newburg, N. Y., where he died without heirs. The Lutterloh family of that day repeatedly tried to get possession of the property which was this uncle but they were unsuccessful in their efforts largely because the agents which the family sent to New York took sick and died before the work of investigation was completed.

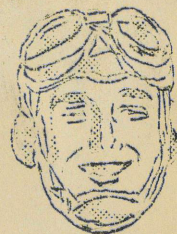

Louis, the third son, had several daughters one of whom married a Fox and another a Smith and the great portion of these two families in this section of the country may look to these two women as being their grandmother and great-grandmother.

Those who were present came from various sections of Guilford, Alamance, Randolph and Chatham counties, among them being 15 grandchildren 25 great-grandchildren and 15 great-great-grandchildren. The oldest descendants of this first Lutterloh are Mr. L. H. Smith, Sr., of Liberty, and Ann Virginia Bryant of Silk Hope, who furnished much historical data concerning the Lutterloh family.

Rev. D. I. Offman of Burlington, a family historian of wide reputation throughout this section of the state, limited his remarks to the early history of the Smith and Fox families showing that he has done much work in this field of research. Mr. Offman also has on hand the history of several other families who settled this section of the country near 200 years ago.

As a result of this coming together of these three families an organization was formed the purpose of which is annually to meet together and to ascertain facts of interest about the Lutterloh family which shall be preserved. The officers of this association are Bob Lutterloh of Burlington, president; J. Rom. Smith of Liberty, secretary-treasurer, and Rev. D. I. Offman, historian.

Ben Rogers of Burlington was present at this reunion and began a movement to raise a perpetual fund the interest of which shall be used for the upkeep of Richland cemetery which was the burying ground of many families for miles around. This plan is expected to be put into operation at once. The cemetery is one of the oldest in this whole section of country and is the resting place of a number of prominent men, among them being Henry Louis Lutterloh.

JUNE BRIDE—Mrs. Garrett Craven was the former Miss Peggy Anne Campbell before her marriage in the Bethel Friends church.

Craven-Campbell Vows Spoken In Bethel Church

In a ceremony of reverence and beauty Miss Peggy Anne Campbell, eldest daughter of Mrs. Viola Campbell of Asheboro, became the bride of Garrett Craven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craven of Route 1, Asheboro, on Saturday evening, June 28, at 8 o'clock in the Bethel Friends church.

Reverend Leonard Vancannon of Asheboro performed the double ring ceremony in a nuptial setting of palms, baskets of white gladioli and seven-branched candelabra holding white lighted tapers.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Martha Ann Lewis of Farmer, pianist, and Miss Sandra Cox of Franklinville, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Lloyd Hunter of Asheboro, wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta designed with V neckline, long pointed sleeves, and full skirt with lace inserts. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a Juliet cap embroidered in seed pearls and she carried a white lace covered Bible topped with white orchids, showered with stephanotis and white satin ribbons.

Miss Anna Groce of Franklinville was maid of honor. She wore a street length Princess style dress of light yellow taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of white pompons tied with yellow ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Edythe Craven, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jane Routh of Siler City. They wore light green taffeta dresses and carried a bouquet of yellow pompons tied with yellow ribbons.

Little Candy Craven, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a nylon chiffon dress and carried a basket of white rose petals.

Clotus Craven was his brother's best man and ushers were Wallace Pugh and Charles Swing, nephews of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a navy lace dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy crepe dress with black accessories. Each had an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Franklinville high school and is employed by Stedman Manufacturing company of Asheboro.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Asheboro high school and is employed by Klopman Weaving Mill of Asheboro.

After a short wedding trip the bridal couple are making their home on Route 1, Asheboro.

Miss Bernice Hinshaw of Siler City directed the wedding.

CAKE CUTTING

Following the wedding rehearsal on Friday evening the bride's mother, Mrs. Viola Campbell and Miss Edythe Craven, sister of the bridegroom, entertained at an informal cake cutting in the church annex for the bridal couple, members of the wedding party and a few close friends.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over green linen and centered with an arrangement of white lighted tapers, miniature bride and bridegroom. At one end of the table was a bridal ring of lilies of the valley and ivy, and at the other end was the wedding cake. After the bridal couple cut the first slice of cake, the bride's mother completed cutting it. Miss Craven presided over the punch bowl.

RO DAILY NEWS,

DR. JESSE PRITCHARD
Honored

Pastor Listed In Methodist 'Who's Who'

ASHEBORO, Sept. 13.—Dr. Jesse E. Pritchard of Asheboro, retired Methodist minister, is among church leaders whose biographical sketches will appear in "Who's Who in Methodism," soon to be published as the church's first volume of its kind.

Dr. Pritchard has served churches in Halifax County, Thomasville, Burlington, Henderson, Asheboro, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Ramseur and Mocksville and was editor of the Methodist Protestant Herald.

He is a trustee of High Point College and of the Methodist Children's Home. He was born near Asheboro November 29, 1880, and married Miss Laura Vestal of Siler City in 1912.

Mishap Fatal To Minister Of Ramseur

RAMSEUR, Sept. 29.—Rev. W. A. Elam, 73, a retired Baptist minister of Ramseur, was killed instantly on Highway 64 in front of his home near here when hit by an automobile about 10:30 a. m. today.

Rev. Mr. Elam was stuck when he stepped from behind a mail delivery car into a line of traffic, according to the state highway patrolman who investigated the death.

The patrolman said that the driver of the car was a Sparks from Charlotte, but his full name was not immediately available.

Eyewitnesses were quoted by the officer as saying that the accident was unavoidable. No charges had been filed tonight.

Rev. Mr. Elam had served churches in Ramseur, Franklinville, Kenansville, Wake Forest, Lilesville, Wadesboro, and Shelby.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Nettie Moon Elam; one daughter, Mrs. Guy F. Lane, of Ramseur; and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at Franklinville Baptist Church where the body will be taken one hour prior to the service. Dr. Zeno Wall and Rev. H. K. Masteller will conduct the services.

A. H. Ellison Is Killed In Road Crash

Greensboro Daily News High Point Bureau
HIGH POINT, May 15.—A. Herman Ellison, 34-year-old Franklinville salesman, was fatally injured about 7 a. m. today in an accident three miles south of Archdale on Highway 311.

State Highway Patrolman C. R. Vaughan said Ellison died of a broken neck and possibly internal injuries while on his way in an ambulance to High Point Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred as a truck tractor, driven by Charles F. Lowe, 43, Route 3, High Point, was braked as it came upon another vehicle, then skidded 128 feet, striking Ellison's car which was moving in the opposite direction, the patrolman said. Vaughan said Ellison had pulled his car almost all the way off the highway when he saw the tractor coming at him.

Ellison was traveling alone. The tractor was the property of Klopman and Son, Inc., of Asheboro.

Ellison was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Ellison of Route 1, Franklinville. He is survived by his parents; his wife; one son, Wayne, 4; and one brother, Colon Ellison, of Route 1, Liberty.

Funeral will be held at 4 p. m. Wednesday at Franklinville Baptist Church. The body will be taken to the church 30 minutes prior to the funeral.

Burial will be in Patterson Grove Christian Church Cemetery. Revs. W. A. Elam, T. E. Cross, and O. P. Routh will officiate.

Randolph County Obituaries

HOOP ARTIST EXTRAORDINAIRE — One time vaudeville performer Mona Jennings, who died Friday, is shown during the height of her stage career manipulating four hoops in a juggling act. She appears at right in the circled inset picture as she was photographed in 1959 for a Courier-Tribune feature story.

Longtime Vaudeville Headliner, Stage Star Mona Jennings Dies

By C. HENRY KING
(Special Writer)

FRANKLINVILLE — At the reputed age of 84, onetime vaudeville headliner Mona Jennings left the world stage Friday.

Mrs. Clifford Jennings, nee Mary Angles Williams, died at Randolph Hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Jennings, who preferred to be called Mona, once told a reporter she really didn't know her birthdate, but that she was born in Flint, Wales, of English parentage.

Her stage career started when she was a child and she occasionally appeared with her grandmother in a British Isles circuit; the association led her to take her grandmother's name for her own stage name: Grey.

She met her American husband, Clifford, while he was performing in Vienna as part of a juggling team known as The Gregories.

After marriage they teamed up as Clifford and Grey and made a world reputation as hoop jugglers. At the height of their careers they made a three year world tour of the best theaters and capped it off with a command performance before King George V and Queen Mary of England.

She came to America in 1923 and with her husband continued vaudeville performances here under the name Hurricane Hoop Jugglers. Their 32 week contract included shows at New York's Palace Theater, and old handbills showed they appeared on the same bill with prominent performers of their era: Jackie Coogan, Maria Dressler, Eddie Cantor, and George Burns, to name a few.

When the Great Depression adversely affected show business, and the era of Vaudeville ended in 1932, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings returned to Franklinville, Mr. Jennings' home town. They thought the stage circuit type of entertainment would return.

She met her American husband, Clifford, while he was performing in Vienna as part of a juggling team known as The Gregories.

Mona Jennings took to operating the small grocery store and combination service station the Jennings family had owned on Highway 22 through Franklinville and continued to operate it until her death this past month.

In a tiny room cluttered with souvenirs of her stage career she lived alone in the store building and virtual obscurity, though she was once again "headlined" in a two-page feature story which appeared in the Courier-Tribune in 1959 at the height of the Hula Hoop Craze when her own adeptness with hoops was publicized.

State newspaper obituaries stated she had no immediate survivors. Her sole relative, as far as she once related, is a third cousin who is a teacher-missionary in one of the far east, Indonesia provinces.

Mrs. J. H. Malone Died Monday, Asheboro, Route 1

Mrs. Lodoski A. Malone, 73, wife of J. H. Malone, died Monday night at her home on route 1, Asheboro, after a long illness. She was a native of Randolph county and was a member of Gospel Chapel Christian church where funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two daughters, Miss Ethel Malone of the home and Mrs. C. R. Chaney of route 2, Ramseur; three sons, Clarence, Floyd and Elmer Malone of route 1, Asheboro; 15 grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Alfred Pugh of route 1, Asheboro; and one brother, W. C. Burrough of route 1, Franklinville.

Mrs. Kitty Grimes Taken By Death; Rites Are Today

Mrs. Kitty Grimes of Franklinville, died at her home Saturday at 5:30 p. m. of a heart attack.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Grady Hussey of Ramseur and Mrs. Jesse Vuncannon of Asheboro; two sons, Harold of Ramseur and Robert B. of Donaldson, Tenn; one sister, Mrs. Sula Parks of Franklinville; and four grandchildren.

Funeral service was held today (Monday) at 3 o'clock at Franklinville Methodist church and burial was in the church cemetery.

Final Rites For Dr. G. H. Sumner Scheduled Today

Had Been County Health Officer For 27 Years

Final rites for Dr. George H. Sumner, 53, Randolph county health officer who died early Sunday in Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill after a brief illness, were conducted from the First Methodist church today at 4 p. m. with Dr. W. A. Stanbury, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Oaklawn cemetery.

Although he had been in declining health for some time, Dr. Sumner's death was unexpected. He had suffered a heart attack last summer while on vacation in South Carolina and had been forced to slow down in his work although he stayed on the job.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina and the Tulane Medical School, Dr. Sumner established the county health department in 1926 after receiving his public health degree from Harvard University. He had been head of the department since 1926. Prior to the time the health department was established, Dr. Sumner had engaged in private practice in Asheboro.

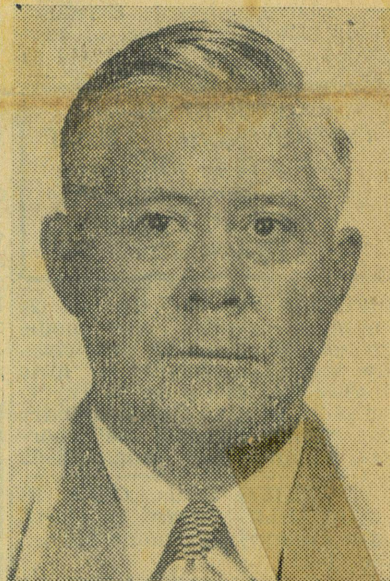

During his 27 years as head of the county's health program, Dr. Sumner had been recognized by the American Board of Health for his outstanding work in public health.

A son of the late David S. and Wincie Black Sumner, he was born March 8, 1900 in Franklinville. He was a member of the First Methodist church of Asheboro, the Rotary club, Randolph County Medical Society and a member of the board of directors of Randolph Hospital, Inc., since its founding.

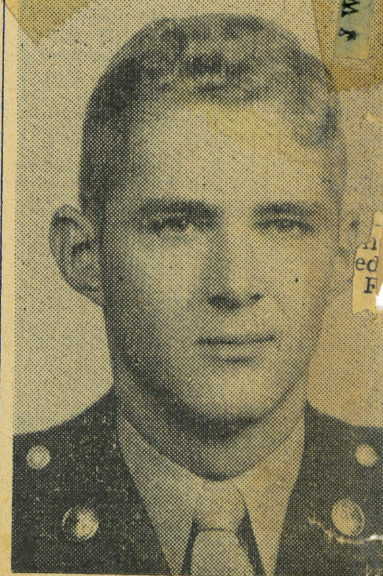

In 1928 Dr. Sumner married Velna Welborn who survives along with one daughter, Elizabeth of the home; one son, David, a pre-medical student at the University of North Carolina; one brother, John Sumner of Raleigh; and two sisters, Misses Laura and Fannie Sumner both of Franklinville.

During his service as county health officer, Dr. Sumner worked diligently for the establishment of a health center for the county. Contracts for the health center were let in September and work on the building is underway. It was the realization of a long-held dream for Dr. Sumner when work on the new center began.

Funeral services were conducted from the First Methodist church this afternoon at 4 o'clock with Dr. W. A. Stanbury, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Oaklawn cemetery.

They have seven children, 13 grandchildren and one great-grandson. (Photo by Huck Sansbury).

Honored On 82nd Birthday

Mrs. Sara Lutterloh Patterson was honored Sunday with an attractive surprise luncheon at the home of her son, Fred M. Patterson and Mrs. Patterson on South Park street. The occasion was Mrs. Patterson's 82nd birthday.

The honoree resides with the Fred Pattersons since the death of her husband several years ago at Franklinville where they had always lived.

Mrs. Tom Patterson brought a huge decorated birthday cake and a delectable buffet luncheon was served at one o'clock.

Those present for the observance were Mrs. Patterson's four children and their families. Fred Patterson, Mrs. Patterson, and children: Sandra, Martha, Bobby and George Mac of Asheboro; Tom Patterson, Mrs. Patterson and sons: Thomas, Robert and Walter of Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Patterson of High Point and the only daughter, Mrs. Claude Caveness, Mr. Caveness and two children, Pat and Betty Sue of Raleigh.

The other guests present were the following: Mrs. Patterson's only brother, J. R. Lutterloh, Mrs. Lutterloh and son, June Lutterloh, of Asheboro; their half-sister, Miss Lula Hayes; Mrs. Etta Hudson and Mrs. Lottie Moon, all of Franklinville.

The honoree received many beautiful and useful gifts.

RECENT BRIDE—Mrs. Walter Stokes Joslin, Jr., wife of Miss Iris Marie Thomas, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Thomas of Franklinville before her marriage to Mr. Joslin of Hopkinsville, Ky., on September 6th.

Iris Marie Thomas Bride Walter Stokes Joslin, Jr.

With only the immediate families and a few close friends attending Miss Iris Marie Thomas, of Franklinville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sylvanus Thomas, Sr., was married at her home there Tuesday, September 6, to Walter Stokes Joslin, Jr., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stokes Joslin, Sr. of Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

Rev. W. A. Elam, pastor of the bride, officiated at four-thirty o'clock, after which a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Otus Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Thomas, Jr. The bridal couple entered the living room together unattended to music by Mrs. Lindsey Cagle, sister of the bride, and spoke their vows before an altar improvised in front of the fireplace. The bride wore a beige gabardine suit with brown accessories and at her shoulder she wore an orchid. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

For the wedding Mrs. Joslin, mother of the groom, wore Dacia mink crepe with brown accessories and a corsage of rosebuds.

The bride's table for the wedding reception in the dining room was spread by a white linen cloth and centered by a tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Candelabra bearing white tapers were on the table and the buffet.

After a short wedding trip the bridal couple will be home at 1218 Kentucky Street, Bowling Green, Kentucky, where the groom is enrolled in Western State Teachers College.

The bride was graduated from Franklinville high school and received her B. S. degree by Appalachian State Teachers college, Boone, North Carolina. For the past four years she has taught home economics in the Franklinville high school.

Mr. Joslin was graduated from Hopkinsville high school and during the war served for years in the army.

Rev. C. E. Rozzelle, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church of High Point, and Rev. Joel B. Trogdon, of Asheboro, will be in charge of the services to be conducted in the home.

RUSSELL—A man highly honored by his church and a friend to everybody in the town of Randleman, N. C., was that of James A. Russell, who was born sixty-five years ago in Randolph county, and died suddenly in the town of Randleman in the afternoon on the first day of the new year 1922. He was a man of the highest type of Christian character, eminently useful and active in church work and an influential leader among the people with whom he had lived and labored for more than a quarter of a century. He served his church in the capacity of steward and Sunday school superintendent and teacher with marked ability and zeal. He often represented his church as a delegate to district conferences. The town and county often honored him with official positions and he never betrayed the confidence imposed in him. He always manifested a thorough sympathy with every movement tending to foster the moral and intellectual welfare of the community. He was a man of deep affections which made his home life beautiful indeed and attracted to him many warm hearted friends. He was democratic in his tastes, consequently he treated the great and the small with the same consideration. There was nothing he would not do for a friend or a brother in distress regardless of station or cast of life. No man was richer in friendship than Brother James Russell. The little children loved "Uncle Jimmie" as they affectionately spoke to him. He was a kind-hearted, devoted husband, a loving father, and a true friend to his neighbors. Many there be who will miss his wise counsel and generous deeds. When he fell on sleep in the arms of Him whom he knew so well and served faithfully, the church and town went into mourning, for all knew that "a prince in Israel had fallen that day." But we know where to find him. Some glad day, when the battles of life are over, we

Private Lamb Writes Home From German Prison Camp

Pvt. Giles Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse G. Lamb, of Randleman, is now a prisoner in a German camp, according to a letter received from him by his parents.

The soldier was previously reported as missing in action on the north African front since February 14. A member of an armored medical battalion, he was with the invasion forces that landed in Africa last fall after a period of training in England.

The letter to Mr. and Mrs. Lamb came by air mail, was dated March 18, and bore a German postmark. Private Lamb wrote in part:

"Now that I have nothing to do but wait for the end of the war, I wish I could spend a lot of time writing you. Since I can only write once a week, I will think about you other times.

"Being a prisoner of war isn't as bad as you think. There are several things we can do to pass away time. We have athletic equipment and fields to play on, also have indoor games. Living quarters are good, the food is O. K. The Red Cross comes through with a package each week—candy, cigarettes and so forth.

"You will be able to send me some things. Red Cross will tell you what and how. Do that immediately. Being a medical soldier, I don't have to do any work."

He wrote that he had not been wounded and indicated his belief that the war will soon be over, "so perhaps I will see you soon," also stating that "I am spending very much time reading the Bible, so I will be much wiser and better for my experiences when I get home."

PVT. GILES LAMB.

MRS. EDNA THOMAS.

Saturday at St. Leo's hospital after an illness of two weeks, was conducted today at 2 p. m. at Franklinville Baptist church by Rev. P. C. Gantt, pastor, and Dr. J. E. Pritchard, pastor of Franklinville Methodist church. Interment followed in the church cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, E. S. Thomas; one daughter, Miss Iris Thomas, of the home; one step-daughter, Mrs. L. E. Cagle, Granite Falls; two stepsons, Otus C. Thomas, Franklinville, and E. S. Thomas, Jr., of the home; two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Walker, Greensboro, and Mrs. J. E. Nelson, Guilford College; six brothers, C. C. Cox, C. Gus Cox and C. O. Cox, all of Greensboro, E. P. Cox, Hillsboro, Cash A. Cox, Franklinville, and G. N. Cox, Galveston, Tex.; and two step-grandchildren.

H. J. FIELDS.

RANDLEMAN, June 11. — H. J. Fields, 65, of Climax, died at St. Leo's hospital in Greensboro this morning after an illness of six weeks. Besides his widow, Mrs. Katie Fields, he is survived by three sons, Floyd F. Fields, Chicago, C. R. Fields and R. H. Fields, both of Greensboro, and two daughters, Miss Verlie Fields, Climax and Mrs. Evie Heffle, Greensboro. Funeral arrangements were incomplete tonight.

Miss Mayme Ellis, Native Of Randolph, Will Be Saluted In Nation-Wide Radio Broadcast

Miss Mayme Ellis, native of the Millboro community, Randolph county, but now of 1524 Eleventh avenue, Hickory, will be honored Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in a nation-wide broadcast over the Blue network from Hollywood. She will be saluted as "The Good Neighbor of the Day" on the "Breakfast at Sardi's" program, Tom Breneman, host. Following the broadcast, an orchid will be expressed from Hollywood to Miss Ellis at her Hickory home.

Twenty-two citizens from the Cloverdale school community, High Point, where she taught 20 years, and from Hickory, signed the letter nominating Miss Ellis for the honor. Mr. Breneman will read this letter during the broadcast.

The letter recounts how Miss Ellis, while still in her teens and following the death of her parents and a brother just younger, assumed charge of a small farm and care of three younger children, refusing positively to allow them to be sent to an orphanage. For 32 years she taught school.

During the past year, Miss Ellis has been confined to a hospital in Hickory with a heart ailment. Hundreds of her friends have visited her and she receives daily letters from friends and former pupils all over the country.

The "salute" concludes:

"To her brothers and sisters who have turned to her for advice and leadership through many years; to hundreds of intimate friends who have known her a long while, to uncounted visitors who have gone to her room for brief visits — to other shut-in persons with whom she keeps in touch; indeed, to all who know her, Miss Mayme Ellis is a neighbor who deserves a good neighbor orchid."

Miss Ellis is a sister of A. B. Ellis of Millboro; Ernest B. Ellis, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Hobart R. (Nellie) Ruth, Hickory; and Miss Mildred Harmon, Hamlet.

Sergeant Butler Says Lack Of Letters Biggest Complaint Of Men Overseas

(Special to Daily News)

FT. BRAGG, May 1.—"Sure, I'll dig in and whip the axis, but, gosh, how about seeing if our mail comes through!" That's the lament of Uncle Sam's boys in the British Isles, passed on to you by Master Sgt. H. Butler, now serving as provost sergeant at this largest of our posts after four and one-half months of service in His Majesty's realm.

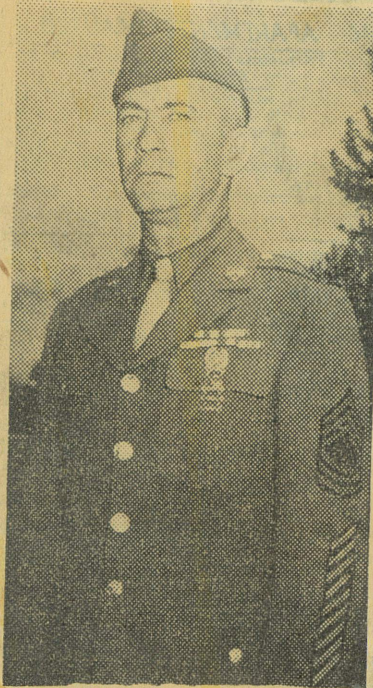

"It's pathetic, that's what it is," Sergeant Butler opines, "the way these boys wait for letters from home. As a matter of fact when Roosevelt was over there, soldiers asked her couldn't do something about the mail problem. She said she'd try, I guess she did. But as far as I know, it's still a problem."

The problem, of course, is caused by U-boat sinkings for one thing, and by the overwhelming amount of mail placed on British postal priorities by wartime living as another.

His observation is only one of many Sergeant Butler is obliged to make with reference to conditions in force in war-torn Britain. Most of them are caused by his 30 years of army service during which he's seen a bit of the world, and a good many of the people.

When I hear people in the States say that we're fighting Hitler's war for them, it makes me pretty mad," Sergeant Butlersays. "Anyone who's had a chance to serve in England since the war began can't help but see the all-out intensity with which the British are opposing the enemy."

According to the sergeant, British rationing is enforced to a degree that makes rationing over here mild by comparison.

SGT. E. H. BUTLER.

"Why," he says, "in all the four months I was over there I had one egg."

Then he chuckles.

"They tell you the average is one egg per person a month. If that's the case, they owe me three eggs, and I mean to go back and claim them some day!"

The sergeant believes that as matters now stand, der fuehrer's Luftwaffe will never again find England the soft touch she was back in 1940 when Germany's incessant bombing raids on London nearly brought her to her knees. Today's defenses are almost impregnable, he reports, and it seems pretty certain that any forthcoming offensives on this front will have their origin with the allies.

Upon returning to these shores, Sergeant Butler was assigned to Ft. Bragg to serve under Brig. Gen. John T. Kennedy, commander of the post. Sergeant Butler had served under General Kennedy when the latter was commander of the Provisional brigade, prior to his elevation to one-star rank.

Although the enlistment in 1913 entitles Sergeant Butler to retirement later this year, he's not thinking much about that. During those 30 years he's served in various field artillery units in Hawaii, Panama, and Mexico as well as the United States. He put in 18 years at Ft. Bragg.

Right now, he's where his family is. The family?

Well, there are Mrs. Butler and three sons . . . Earl, who's a captain in the finance department at Ft. Jackson, S. C.; Paul, who's a petty officer in the naval air force; and David, a young man of 12 who vows he'll join the coast guard when he's old enough.

Strange Reunion Of Sailors Recalls Fate Of German Raider

WITH THE ATLANTIC FLEET, At Sea, May 1.—(INS)—A strange reunion of two veteran sailors—one an American, the other of German parentage—was described today by Boatswain V. L. Ryan of Brady, Tex.

Ryan said that he and Jon Rohde, also of Brady, had been acquainted for several years. Neither knew until recently that the first world war had thrown them together 25 years ago. They learned about it only when Boatswain Ryan, who has returned to active duty, signed up Rohde's 20-year-old son, Walter Herman Rohde, for service in Uncle Sam's fleet.

Was In German Navy.

Ryan, now on duty aboard this warship, said the elder Rohde accompanied his son to the recruiting office at Brady.

"He said he used to be in the navy, and I asked him when and where," Ryan explained.

"He told me he was in the German navy during the last war. Not only that, but he said he was serving on the armed raider, Crown Prinz Wilhelm, and was taken prisoner."

It's a Small World.

"Well, that nearly flabbergasted me! I was there when we took over that ship, and I was sent aboard her as a gunner. The Wilhelm was put into service as a transport vessel and her name was changed to the U. S. S. Von Steuben. I make 18 round trips to France aboard her," Ryan continued.

While young Rohde was entering the American navy, his father recalled a number of his long dormant legislative rules in an effort to delay the measure."

S. Clifford Trogdon Of Franklinville, Dies

FRANKLINVILLE, July 22. — S. Clifford Trogdon, Sr., 60, died suddenly this afternoon while on a business trip in High Point.

An employee of Randolph mills here for the past 39 years, he was utility superintendent for the company. He was a lifelong member of Franklinville Baptist church and was a deacon and Sunday school superintendent of the church.

Mr. Trogdon is survived by his wife, the former Leida Beane; two daughters, Mrs. Vernon Phillips, Franklinville, and Mrs. Colen Welch, of New York; two sons, Garland and Clifford, Jr., of Franklinville, and four grandchildren. Funeral arrangements are incom-own experiences at sea. "He even told me how they tried to sabotage the Wilhelm before we could board it," Boatswain Ryan said, adding, "and they darn near did."

Rohde was held in an internment camp at Philadelphia, where the Wilhelm was taken over as a prize of war, and after the peace of Versailles he returned to Germany. Several years later he came back to the United States, settled at Brady and became a citizen.

"Funny thing how war throws people around," Ryan said. "I'd known Jon Rohde ever since I retired from the navy and went back to Brady. He runs a bakery shop there. But it took another war for us to learn that we'd been pretty closely mixed up together in the last one."

SEUR, July 23.—Funeral for S. Clifford Trogdon, 58, of Franklinville, will be held at 4 p. m. Wednesday at Franklinville Baptist church. The body will be taken at 3:30 p. m. to the church. Mr. Trogdon died suddenly while on a business trip from Randolph mills, Franklinville, for 40 years and was utility superintendent for the company. He was a member of the Ramseur Lions club and a trustee of the Franklinville church.

W. R. COX

RAMSEUR, Jan. 18.—W. R. (Bogard) Cox, 68, of Franklinville, died today at his home after an illness lasting five years. Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Thelma Craven Cox; four daughters, Mrs. Charles Bryant, High Point, Mrs. W. K. Watson, Baltimore, Md., and Misses Mary and Margaret Cox, of the home; three sons, Russell, of Asheboro, Richard, of Georgia, and Robert, of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Cecil Tippet, Franklinville, and Mrs. Will Grimes, High Point, and four grandchildren. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

MRS. SPICY M'CORQUODALE

RAMSEUR, May 5.—Mrs. Spicy Elizabeth McCorquodale, 59, of Franklinville, died late last night at Randolph hospital in Asheboro after an illness of two years. Funeral will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at Franklinville Methodist church, with burial following in the church cemetery. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. J. Woosley Allred, of Franklinville; two grandchildren; and two brothers, Neal A. and J. F. McCorquodale, of Franklinville.

W. A. Trogdon Died Tuesday At Franklinville 1949

William A. Trogdon, 70, died at 5:15 p. m. Tuesday at his home in Franklinville after being in poor health for six years and critically ill for nine days.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Catherine Lamb; two daughters, Mrs. James R. Callicutt of route 1, Thomasville and Mrs. H. L. Phillips of route 1, Ramseur; a sister, Mrs. J. E. Bray of Burlington; three brothers, H. H. and Tom Trogdon of Greensboro and J. B. Trogdon of Ft. Worth, Texas.

Funeral services were held this afternoon, Thursday, at 2:30 o'clock from the Pilgrim Holiness church, Franklinville, and interment made in the Franklinville Methodist church cemetery.

IN MEMORY OF FANNIE ELLISON

The time has come to say farewell,
Our earthly ties are severed.
For Jesus sent an angel down,
To take you home to Heaven.

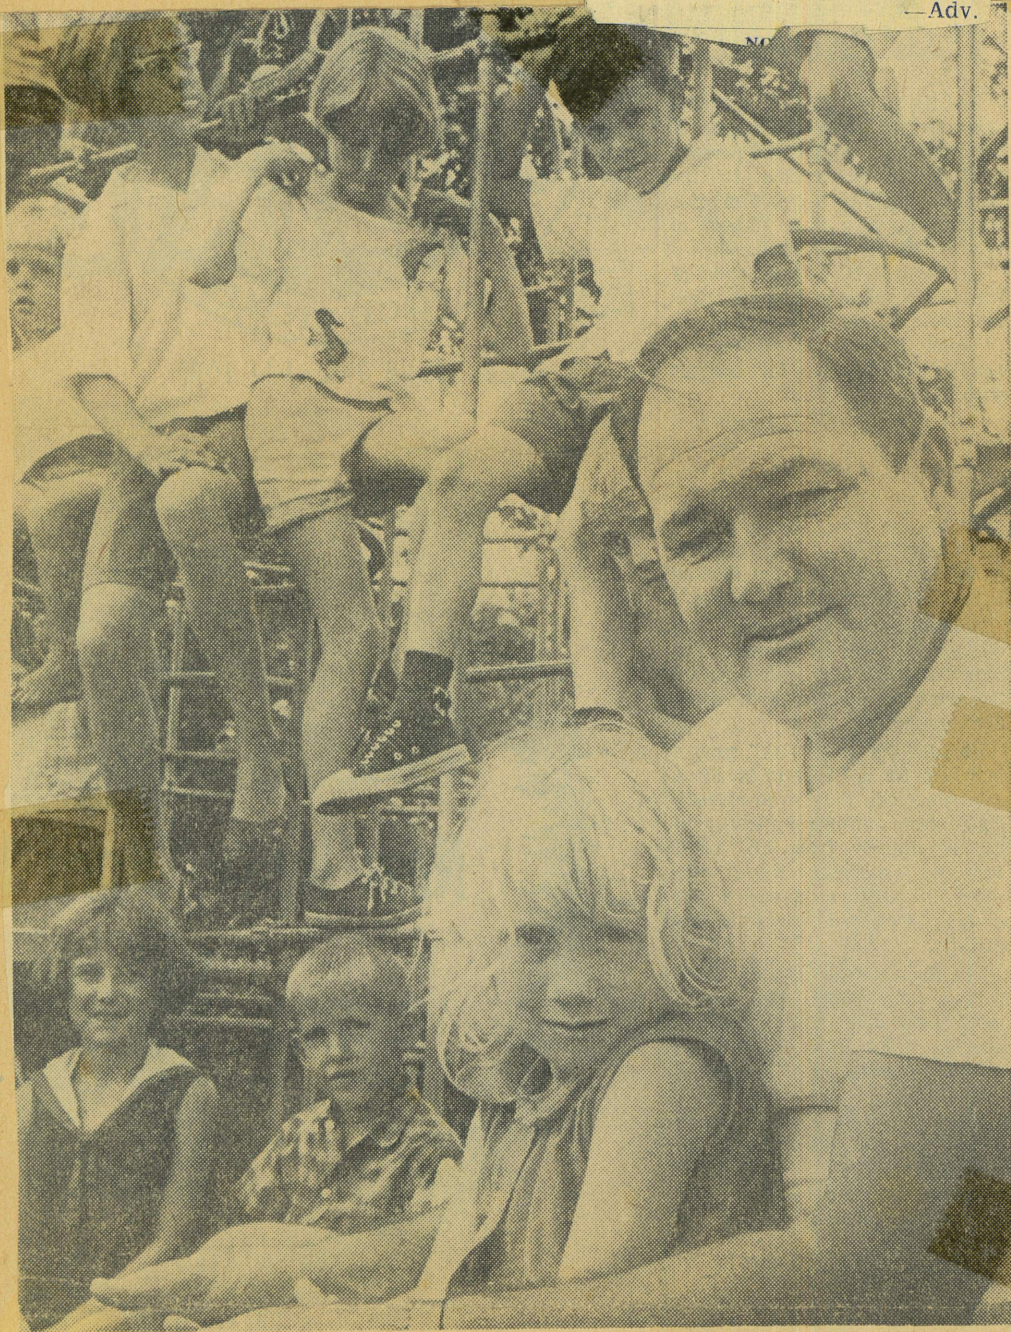

You said, you feared not death.
You were ready to go.
So, you slipped away to that
home of the soul.

Its walls are of jasper,
Its streets are of gold,
And Jesus is there when the
gates unfold.

Fannie, we miss your gentle
voice,
And your friendly smile.
But, you answered the summons
To a home in the sky.

There's a vacant place in the home
That never can be filled.
But, some glad day we know not
when,
We'll join you in the Heavenly
bliss.

Man Is Fatally Injured When Struck By Truck

FRANKLINVILLE, Dec. 10. — William Colvin Vestal, 41, of Franklinville was fatally injured here today when struck by a truck said to have been going downhill with defective brakes.

The accident occurred about 10 a. m. on Route 64-A inside the town limits, and Vestal died about 1:20 p. m., according to W. W. Wilson of Ramseur, state highway patrolman.

Wilson gave this version of the accident:

A car driven by Vestal, an employee of the engineering division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, stalled on the street.

Stood In Street

While his brother, John, in another car was moving into position to give the stalled vehicle a push, Vestal stood in the street to see whether the bumpers of the two cars would fit.

A truck owned by Randolph Mills, Inc., and driven by J. E. Waldon, Negro, came down the hill and struck Vestal, knocking him several feet through the air onto the hood of his own car.

Wilson quoted Waldon as saying that he knew the brakes were defective when he drove the truck away from the mill, and that when he saw Vestal standing in the street, he tried to steer the truck between the Vestals and the traffic approaching from the other direction.

The truck sideswiped both Vestal cars, Wilson said, and added that Waldon would be given a hearing in a few days on charge of manslaughter.

Vestal's body was taken to a Ramseur funeral home, from which it will be taken to the Vestal home at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Funeral Set

Funeral will be held at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Franklinville Methodist Church by Rev. J. W. Vestal and Dr. J. E. Pritchard. The body will be taken to the church 30 minutes before the service. Burial will be in Brown's Chapel Cemetery near Asheboro.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lois Carpenter Vestal; a daughter, Margaret Ann Vestal of the home; a son, Frank Vestal of the home; and two brothers, Joseph Vestal of Asheboro, and John Russell Vestal of Franklinville.

W. F. Redding Former Sheriff, Succumbs At 82

W. F. REDDING

Funeral Service Planned Friday, Central Methodist

William Frank Redding, prominent, retired business man of Asheboro, pioneer Republican leader and former Randolph county sheriff, died at 8:20 last night at Randolph hospital. He was 82 years of age. Death followed a heart attack a week ago. He had been in failing health during the past few years.

The funeral will be conducted at 5 p. m. Friday at the Central Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. Mark Q. Tuttle, assisted by Dr. J. E. Pritchard and Dr. S. W. Taylor. Burial will follow in Asheboro cemetery. The body will be carried to the church an hour and a half before the service.

Mr. Redding was born February 8, 1866, three miles west of Asheboro, son of the late Thomas and Eliza Steed Redding. In his early years he was in the lumber and furniture business. Since 1907 he had been engaged in the milling business, and at the time of his death was president of the Southern Crown Milling Company.

He was elected to the first board of directors of the First National Bank when the bank was organized in 1905, and at the time of his death was vice president. He was elected to the first board of directors of the Peoples Building and Loan Association, and served on the board until his death.

Mr. Redding was one of the original members of the Methodist Protestant church, which is now the Central Methodist church, and served as a church trustee.

He was a former member of the Asheboro city council.

He was elected sheriff of Randolph county about the turn of the century, and served in that office for three terms.

For many years Mr. Redding was an active participant in Asheboro's civic, social, religious and political affairs.

He was a member of the original board of directors of the Randolph hospital, and served on the board until his death. He was a member of the Asheboro Rotary club.

Mr. Redding was married twice. His first wife was the former Miss Cora Bulla, since deceased. To that union was born one daughter, Cora Redding Mendenhall, who preceded her father in death in 1938.

On December 21, 1898, Mr. Redding married the former Miss Ida Hammer, who survives him. They would have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary this year.

He is survived also by three sons, W. Frank Redding, Jr., Thomas S. Redding and John F. Redding, all of Asheboro. There are seven grandchildren, Martha Mendenhall of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Cynthia Mendenhall of Asheville, Frank Redding, III, Donald Redding, Milton Redding, Thomas Redding, Jr., and Brantley Redding.

The wedding is being planned for late spring.

ASHEBORO PROGRESS CELEBRATED

A special train eased into the crowd Saturday afternoon at Asheboro as that city celebrated its "60 Years of Progress" with a brief ceremony and a huge parade. The one passenger car behind the big diesel is loaded with Randolph County people who saw the first train pull into Asheboro at the same spot 60 years ago. The crowd in Asheboro for the day was described as one of the largest ever to throng the streets, in spite of threatening weather. (John-David Photo.)

Asheboro Reviews 60 Years Of Progress As First Diesel Train Glides Into City

BY JACK ABERNATHY

Greensboro Daily News Bureau

Stedman Building, Telephone 670

ASHEBORO, July 3.—If "history repeats itself," Asheboro got a double dose yesterday during the celebration of "60 Years of Progress."

Almost to the day 60 years ago the first train pulled into Asheboro, chuffing and panting on the slight upgrade behind a wood-burning engine, to be greeted by rain and a large crowd of the curious. Saturday a Southern Railway diesel glided easily into the same spot, again to be greeted by rain and a large crowd of the curious.

Most curious spectators to the 1949 arrival were dozens of small boys who clambered over the big polished diesel engine almost as soon as it stopped, ignoring completely the antics and speechmaking of the adults on the platform.

Among those adults on the reviewing stand-platform were some of the "oldtimers" who saw the 1889 arrival. They rode into town on a passenger car hooked to the diesel. The spot where the depot once stood is now the center of Asheboro's business district.

Introduced to the spectators by Master of Ceremonies Vance Welborn were six sisters who have watched the 60 years of progress.

They are Mrs. Sallie Vuncannon and Mrs. Belle Hussey, both of Route 3, Asheboro; Mrs. Crissie Allred, Mrs. Nettie Lewallen, both of Asheboro; and twins, Mrs. Ada Mc-Masters of Asheboro and Mrs. Ida Kearns of Route 3, Asheboro.

Spokesmen for the "60-year citizens" was Dr. J. E. Pritchard, who was also instrumental in organizing the day's celebration. "What Happened in 1889" was the historian's topic. Dr. Pritchard told of the difficulties encountered by the original charter company, which had to get a train into Asheboro by June 20 to fulfill the contract. The letter of the law was complied with, according to Dr. Pritchard, when the builders took up rails and cross-ties behind them to lay hastily in front of a slowly-advancing engine.

The historian also recounted the story of the first arrival. It seems the spectators were using umbrellas to ward off a rain when the engine came creeping around the bend up the grade. Somebody in the crowd shouted: "Put your umbrellas down, you're scaring the poor thing!" According to legend, half the crowd lowered their umbrellas before they stopped to think.

The train and its passengers and the spectators were welcomed to Asheboro by Mayor J. F. McCrary, who said: "We are glad you can join with us in celebrating 60 years of progress."

George C. Potter, assistant freight agent of the Southern Railway in Charlotte, spoke also, summarizing the history of the railroad. It was chartered in 1883 as a branch of the North Carolina Railroad. It has continued under the same name, "High Point, Randleman, Asheboro, and Southern." Potter also pointed out that one year after the railroad came the population increased from 300 to 500.

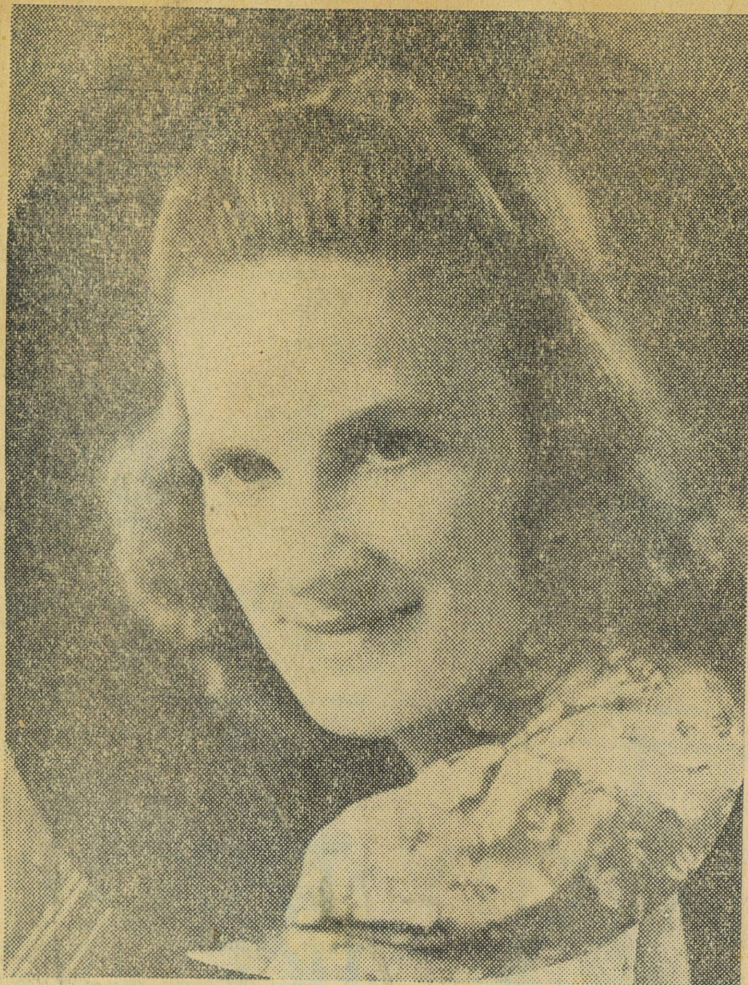

Also introduced were Mrs. A. M. Rankin, widow of the conductor of the first train; Representative Harold D. Cooley of Nashville; C. C. Pritchard, brother of Dr. Pritchard, who now works for the railroad in Thomasville; and Russell Walker, president of the Asheboro Merchants Association.

Just as the trainside ceremonies were concluded, the day's big parade rounded the corner up the street and the crowd scampered for the sidewalks.

Some 140 units wound around the main streets of Asheboro in the parade, one of the largest ever staged in Asheboro. In the line were examples of the progress made in transportation from the days of 1889 and in agricultural machinery.

There was a "surrey with a fringe on top," a covered wagon with narrow bed and sharply sloping ends. The American Express Company sent an exhibit ranging from its early hand carts up to the most modern truck. The fire department paraded an early hand cart and its newest truck. Dealers in agricultural implements started out with a hand scythe and progress through the development of harvesting implements to 1949 models.

When the parade was over, the city police force had a record traffic problem on their hands. Every man on the force, including the chief, manned a corner and directed traffic for an hour or more.

Mrs. Mary E. Hudson, of Asheboro, today announces the marriage of her daughter, Stella Marie, to Ryan Reynolds Neely, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Neely of Asheboro, on Saturday, December 20th, 1941, Cheraw, S. C. Mr. Neely is in the United States army and is stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Rev. Mr. Smith Dies At Elkin; Funeral Today

Superintendent of Chatham Hospital

(Special to Daily News)

ELKIN, April 7.—Rev. Walter M. Smith, superintendent of Hugh Chatham Memorial hospital here, died early today after an illness that lasted a week.

The funeral will be held Saturday, the first service being conducted at his home in Elkin at 2:30 p. m. and another at Elkin Methodist church at 3 p. m. Interment will be in Winston-Salem. In charge of the services will be Bishop Clare Purcell, of Charlotte; Dr. Charles C. Weaver, Winston-Salem, and Dr. J. L. Stokes, II, of Elkin.

Rev. Mr. Smith was born July 2, 1887, in Chatham, the son of Allie Brooker and John Smith. He survived his wife, the former Pearl Brooks of Winston-Salem; a daughter, Mrs. Annette Smith Chandler, a teacher in the high school at Mt. Airy; four brothers, Alfred and Ray Smith, of Siler City, J. George and R. Glenn Smith, of Liberty, and one sister, Mrs. Swannie McPherson, of Liberty.

Since October 1942 Rev. Mr. Smith had served as superintendent of Hugh Chatham Memorial hospital. He joined the Western North Carolina conference at High Point in 1912 and Burnsville was his first pastorate. He served other churches in the following order: Salem, Winston-Salem; Ruffin; Forsyth-Franklinville; Salem, Ala.; Wesley Heights, Charlotte; Main Street, Belmont; New Hope, and Burkhead, Winston-Salem. He was director of the Golden Cross, an annual collection for the benefit of hospitals, in the Western North Carolina conference.

Rev. Mr. Smith was considered one of the most beloved ministers of his conference, who, during the 30 years of his ministry, gave to the people he served a tireless, efficient, and unselfish work.

Pvt. Elvin C. Cox Wounded In Action In Italy, June 8

Pvt. Elvin C. Cox, who was serving with an infantry rifle company with the Fifth Army in Italy, was hit in the stomach by a German machine gun bullet about 9 a. m., June 8th, and is in a front line hospital. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Cox of Ramseur, rt. 2 and had been on the Anzio beachhead since mid March where he went to the front on his 24th birthday, March 27, 1944. He had been at the front under fire for seventy days, with only two days rest, at the time he was wounded while advancing somewhere north of Rome. He writes that although he was "banged up pretty badly" and had been "very sick," he was "resting well" and his doctor says his "chances of recovery are pretty good."

On several previous occasions, Pvt. Cox had written of many very narrow escapes from snipers, artillery fire, and machine gun fire. He says his company has lost several men and that time and again men have been killed or wounded within a few feet leaving him standing in amazement untouched. His best pal was wounded just a few days before he fell.

Pvt. Cox, whose wife, the former Miss Nettie Moody, and son, Terry Clark, reside at Ramseur, entered the Army on August 21, 1943, as a limited service selectee but for some unexplained reason took his basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala., for seventeen weeks with an infantry replacement company as a regular and as such was sent overseas and landed in North Africa in early March and from thence to the Anzio beachhead where he remained until the big drive for the liberation of Rome and points northward.

UNCLE, NEPHEW IN SERVICE

Russell R. Grose, left, seaman, first class, son of Mrs. Annie Grose of Franklinville, entered the navy in January 1944. He received his boot training at Bainbridge Md. and was stationed on a D. E. After completing a trip to Italy recently he spent a six-day leave with his wife and children in Franklinville. Lawrence A. Grose, right, boatswain mate, second class, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Grose of Franklinville, entered the navy in February, 1943. He is a nephew of Russell R. Grose. He took his boot training at Bainbridge, Md., and is now serving on a L.S.T., having participated in the invasion of southern France. He is now in North Africa.

Pleasant Garden Resident Dies

Mrs. Cora Cox Hockett, 85 old resident of Pleasant Garden died at 12:30 p. m. yesterday at the Piedmont Memorial Hospital. She had been a patient for 10 days. She had been in declining health for a long period.

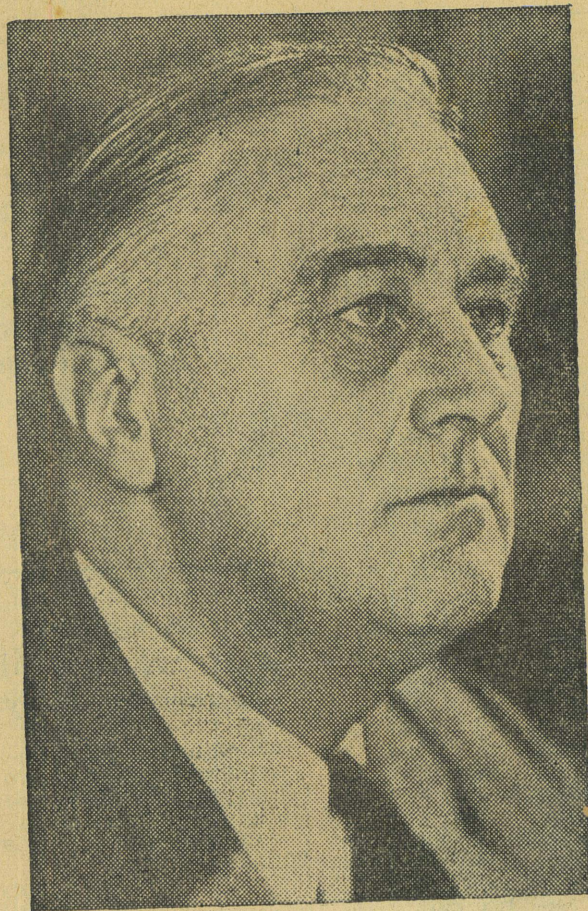

Daughter of the late Milton Margaret M. Cox of Ramsey County, she was born June 1, 1859. Her husband, John B. Hockett, died in 1950 after they had been married for 63 years.

She was a member of the Pleasant Garden Friends Church.

Surviving are three daughters: Miss Alice Hockett of the Greensboro, and Mrs. Extra F. Hockett of Greensboro; five sons: Marvin and Joseph Hockett of Pleasant Garden, Dr. L. E. Hockett of Vancouver, Wash., Jay Hockett of Goldendale, Mich., and Hockett of La Centre, W. Va. Her sister, Miss Nettie Cox of the Greensboro; 13 grandchildren, and 13 great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be conducted at the Center Church at a time to be announced later.

J. C. PHILLIPS DIED THURSDAY

Well Known Franklinville
Citizen Dies After Short,
Serious Illness

J. C. Phillips, 66, of Franklinville, died Thursday afternoon in the Barnes-Griffin clinic after a serious illness of four days.

Living in this county all his life, he had made many friends and was highly esteemed by all who knew him, living a modest, quiet life. For the past four years he had been in declining health and some months ago retired from farming. He was an active member of Franklinville Baptist church until his health became such that he was not permitted to attend.

Funeral will be held at Franklinville Baptist church this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Phillips had lived in Franklinville for the past 35 years, moving there from southern Randolph so that his children might have access to better schools.

Surviving are his wife, the former Dora E. Marley; one son, Vernon Phillips, Franklinville; four daughters, Nora Phillips, of the Home; Mrs. Fletcher Cox, Ramseur; Mrs. Colon Way and Mrs. Allen Scott of Asheboro; one sister, Mrs. Bennett Kidd, of Liberty, and two grandchildren.

MRS. ROY LANDRUM

Miss Annie Fox Becomes Bride Of Capt. Landrum

(Special to Daily News)

ASHEBORO, Jan. 2.—St. John's Lutheran church was the scene of the wedding Sunday afternoon, December 20, of Miss Annie Maria Fox and Capt. Roy Landrum, of the United States army. Rev. A. O. Lyerly, pastor of Coble's Lutheran church, near Julian, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.

A program of wedding music was furnished by Miss Ethel Johnson, organist, and Mrs. Robert W. Wood, vocalist, during which the candles were lighted by J. T. Fox, of Salisbury, brother of the bride, and Howard Craven. Traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride and bridegroom entered together unattended.

Immediately after the ceremony a buffet supper was served by Mrs. Howard Craven, Mrs. Charles Pickard and Mrs. Dodge Causey, sisters of the bride, at the home of Mrs. Craven in Greystone terrace.

Captain and Mrs. Landrum left later in the evening for a trip to Oklahoma and upon their return they will be at home at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Mrs. Landrum is the youngest daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Fox, of Franklinville, and had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Fox at Staley for the past several years. She attended Woman's college, Greensboro, graduating with the class of 1940. Since then she has been a member of New London and South River schools faculties.

Captain Landrum is the son of M. L. Landrum and the late Mrs. Landrum, of Mountain View, Mo. He was graduated from State college, Raleigh, in 1938 and has been in service since then. He is stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Frank Wright, Of Asheboro, Found Dead

Prominent Man's Body Located After Search

(Special to Daily News)

ASHEBORO, Jan. 10.—The body of Frank M. Wright, 70, United States commissioner here, was found about midnight last night some 300 feet from the road which runs northeast from here through Baptist Hill, negro section, east of Asheboro.

J. Carl Loflin, county coroner of Liberty, ruled death came as a result of natural causes. When found, the body was lying face up. An overcoat he was wearing had been pulled over his body, which was cold when found. Loflin said he had been dead several hours when discovered.

Mrs. Wright, wife of the dead man, had been alarmed by his absence since he left home about 10 o'clock yesterday morning and had not been heard from. She inquired about town and W. L. Ward, John G. Prevette and George Ward began a search. Officers joined in the search.

Wright was last seen just before noon walking toward the eastern part of town by a negro woman and also by a taxi driver. It was suggested that he apparently had been going in the direction of the home of his son, Bruce Wright, who is now in Newport News.

Born in Randolph county, Wright had been a teacher and had been active in politics, church and civic activities. He came to Asheboro many years ago from Shiloh academy, where he had been teaching, to serve as clerk of court of Randolph county. He was postmaster here for several years and a member of the Asheboro Friends church, where funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Surviving are his wife; one son, Bruce Wright, of Newport News, Va.; four daughters, Miss Thyra Wright, faculty member of Bessemer school, Guilford county, Mrs. Harvey Horne, of Burlington, Mrs. Zeb Harrington, of Moncure, and Mrs. Clarence York, of Franklinville; four grandchildren; one brother, George Wright, of Staley, and several half-brothers.

To Hold Funeral At Franklinville This Afternoon For Two Aged Women Who Passed Away Saturday Morning

Miss Jane Isabella Dove
Died Saturday Morning
at Age 87 Years.

LOYAL CHRISTIAN

Franklinville, Mar. 16.—Miss Jane Isabella Dove, 87, died at the home of R. H. Kirkman, Saturday morning, March 16, after a few week's illness. Funeral will be held at 2:00 Sunday afternoon at Franklinville Methodist church, conducted by her pastor, Rev. R. M. Hauss, of Ramseur, assisted by Rev. V. L. Andrews. Interment will be made at Salem cemetery, east of Franklinville.

She was born March 5, 1853, the daughter of Malcolm and Mrs. Ann Leslie Dove. At the age of 12 years she moved with her parents from Cameron to Franklinville in year 1865. She soon secured a position in Randolph cotton mill, generally known as Island Ford Factory, and continued to work for more than 57 years.

Soon after moving to Franklinville, she united with Franklinville M. E. church and has remained a loyal and faithful member. She lived a quiet peaceful life, and had a large circle of friends, who will sadly miss her.

She is survived by two sisters; Mrs. Susan Elliott, of Rutherford College, and Mrs. Amanda Frazier, of Franklinville; and several nieces and nephews.

The body will be brought from Brady funeral home, Ramseur, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning to her home in Franklinville where it will remain until the hour of the funeral.

souri, Vestal.

German Shell Lands In Lap And Furnished Randleman Boy With Souvenir Of Big Air Field

An Eighth AAF Bomber Station, England — 1st Lieutenant Robert C. Galyon, 26, of Randleman, had a German 20 MM cannon shell fired right into his lap and it didn't do any more than provide him with a nice souvenir of the days in the European theatre of operations.

It happened this way during an attack by Eighth AAF Flying Fortresses on a synthetic oil plant at Brux.

Coming out of the target area, the Forts were attacked fiercely by the twin-engine German ME 410s. A group of about 45 hung off and lobbed rockets into Lt. Galyon's formation. Then they closed in to attack with cannon fire.

One 20 MM shell smashed through the stabilizer close by the tail gunner, went on up and hit the propeller.

The whirling prop "golfed" the shell, sending it through the fuselage of the Fort and it wound up by plopping right into Lt. Galyon's lap as he sat there flying the plane. It did not hurt anyone, but it ruined the prop and the plane needed a new stabilizer.

Lt. Galyon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Galyon of Randleman, and his wife is Mrs. Dorothy Galyon of 5726 Floyd St., St. Louis, Mo. He was employed with the Commonwealth Hosiery mills in Randleman before he entered the Army Sept. 29, 1940.

SGT. W. A. GRIMES KILLED IN ACTION IN ASIATIC AREA

Wife At Ramseur Received Notice Thursday Husband Lost His Life In China

WAS IN AIR CORPS

Sgt. William A. Grimes, 23, U. S. Army Air Corps, was killed on May 12, in China. A telegram announcing the fact was received Thursday by his wife, Mrs. Louise Wilson Grimes, of Ramseur.

Sgt. Grimes entered the service November 4, 1942, and was sent overseas in October, 1943, serving in North Africa, India, and China. He was wounded Nov. 26, 1943, when the ship he was on, making the trip from North Africa to India, was sunk, but was rescued and hospitalized and soon returned to duty. He was serving with a ground crew of the air force in China when he lost his life.

Sgt. Grimes received his basic training at Fresno, Cal.; mechanics training at Lincoln, Neb.; a specialist course at Chanute Field, Ill.; and overseas training at Kearns, Utah, and Seymour Johnson Field, Goldsboro, N. C., before going across. He was educated in the Franklinville high school and before entering the service was with the Randolph Mills, Franklinville.

In addition to his wife, Mrs. Louise Wilson Grimes, whom he married about 19 months ago, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Kittie Grimes of Franklinville; two brothers, Pvt. Harold T. Grimes, who is with the American army on the Anzio beachhead, Italy; and Staff Sgt. Robert B. Grimes, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.; two sisters, Mrs. Grady Hussey of Ramseur and Mrs. Jesse Vonnannon of Franklinville; and a niece, Dianne Vonnannon of Franklinville. His father was the late R. R. Grimes of Franklinville.

The last letter received by Sgt. Grimes' wife from her husband was dated May 11, the day before he lost his life, and was received before the telegram containing the tragic news of his death.

IN MEMORY OF FANNIE ELLISON

The time has come to say farewell,
Our earthly ties are severed.
For Jesus sent an angel down,
To take you home to Heaven.

You said, you feared not death,
You were ready to go.
So, you slipped away to that
home of the soul.

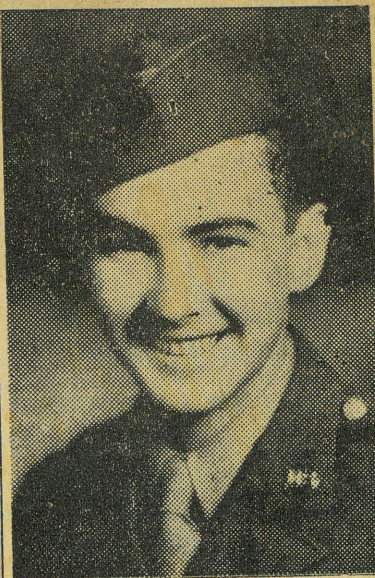

Its walls are of jasper,
Its streets are of gold,
And Jesus is there when the
gates unfold.

Fannie, we miss your gentle
voice,
And your friendly smile.
But, you answered the summons
To a home in the sky.

There's a vacant place in the
home
That never can be filled.
But, some glad day we know not
when,
We'll join you in the Heavenly
bliss.
