Recipe Is Given For Soap Making On Tar Heel Farms

College Station, Raleigh, Aug. 13.—So great is the demand for soap making on the farm that the Home Economics Department of the Extension Service at State college has prepared copies of two standard soap recipes, one for uncooked soap and the other for cooked soap. Six pounds of tallow or lard, or a combination of both, 2½ pints of cold water, and 1 can of high-test lye (about 13 ounces) will make approximately 9 pounds of soap.

The experts caution that only sweet, clean fats should be used for soap making. To sweeten rancid fat, boil 1 part of vinegar and 5 parts of water with the fat, and allow to cool. Then, skim off the fat.

Another method to use, when grease has a strong odor, is to melt it in the top of a double boiler and cook it with clabbered milk using one cup of milk to one pound of grease.

Complete information on how to clean fats, how to sweeten rancid fat, how to prepare meat rinds or cracklings for soap, and the two soap recipes may be obtained from the Home Demonstration Agent in each county or by writing the Home Economics Department, Extension Service, State College, Raleigh.

Body Of Woman Found In Abandoned House On Willowbrook Street

By JOE LESLIE and BILL CURRIE

The body of an unidentified white woman, about 35, a nylon stocking knotted about her throat, was found early today in an abandoned Willowbrook street house near the heart of the city's business district.

By early afternoon, police had intensified a city-wide investigation in an effort to establish her identity and possibly track down the killer. Officers assigned to the case were probing every possible lead, including a thorough check of the missing persons files, but none of the leads had shed any light on the woman's identity or where she was from.

The body was discovered at about 12:30 a. m. today when police were told by a lumber yard laborer that he had wandered into the house yesterday morning and had seen the dead woman on the floor.

When officers arrived, they found the body lying on the floor, face up, the stocking knotted about the throat. In addition to the stocking, officers found what appeared to be a cloth belt from a woman's dress fashioned into a crude slip-knot noose and spooled, tight about the throat over the stocking.

The body was badly decomposed and swollen with gas. The right eye of the head had nearly fallen where it had lain in contact with the rubble on the floor. Skin on the arms and thigh had turned sep brown and black.

Filthy Room
The room in which the body was found is at the front of the one-story frame house. The floor was covered with old newspapers and magazines, dirt, and pieces of lumber which had fallen away from the ceiling and walls.

A crowd of nearly 200 gathered in front of the death house as police waited for the arrival of Coroner Dr. W. W. Harvey. He appeared at 10:30 a. m. and made a check of the body and the room. His estimate on first examination was that the woman had been dead approximately a week.

Earlier police had found in the house several items of clothing which may have belonged to the dead woman. They were taken to headquarters for study, in hopes that they might furnish some value to the woman's name and home address. However, no laundry marks or other specific markings were found.

Vandals Break Up Gravestones In Historic Cemetery

Turning deputies today were looking for young vandals who desecrated 23 gravestones in the cemetery of historic Springfield meeting, the oldest church in the High Point vicinity.

Caretaker Ernest Weed said that when he began work Tuesday, he found 11 markers in the older part of the graveyard turned over, one of them broken. He said that yesterday he discovered 12 other stones tipped over, six of them broken. The incidents were reported to officers yesterday by Blair Richardson of the memorial committee.

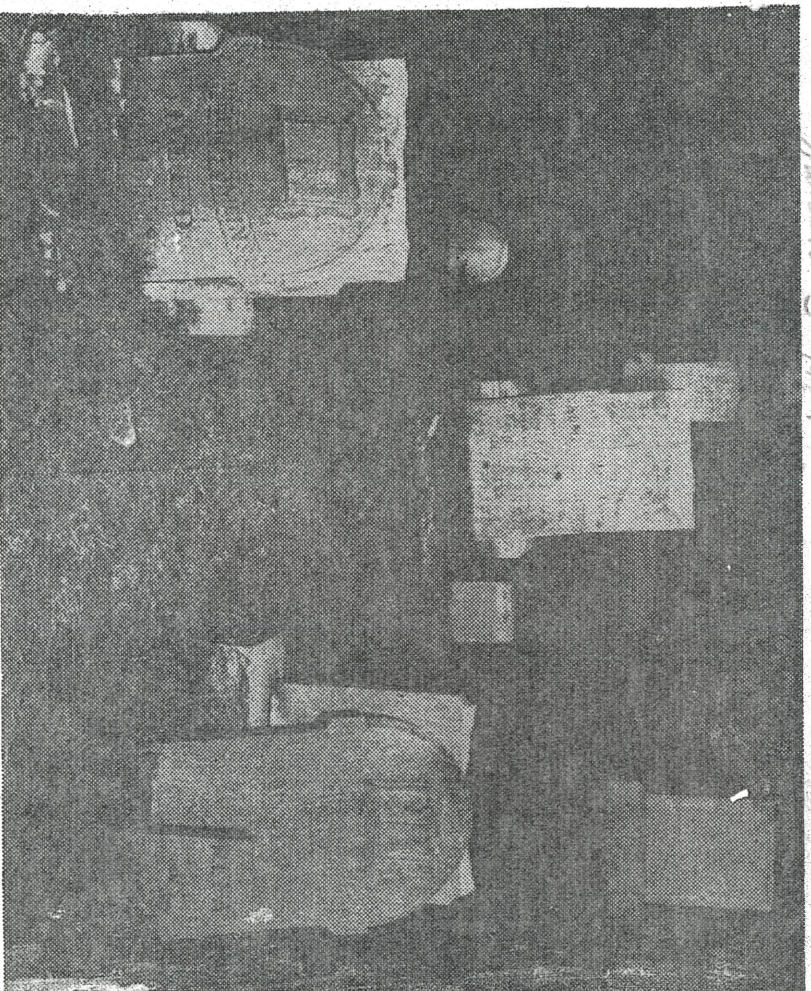

Should Know Better

Deputy D. S. Lee, conducting an investigation with another officer, said he felt sure the vandalism was the work of "young kids, but kids who're old enough to know better."

Mrs. C. B. Mattocks, treasurer of the memorial association which provides for upkeep of the grounds, said there was no dollars and cents estimate of damage "because the stones themselves are so valuable. There's no way of putting any value on them at all," she said, "except historical and sentimental value."

Mrs. Mattocks added that the limbs had been broken off a number of box bushes at the graveyard.

Most of the tipped over and broken stones bore the names of Tomlinson, Ragan, Parson, Ricks and Harbin. The oldest one that was broken had been put up in 1804. Fortunately, none of the earliest markers were bothered. The stone at the first marked grave in the cemetery was put up in 1776.

MEMORIALS DESECRATED — This photo shows several gravestones in historic Springfield Meeting cemetery which deputies say were broken by vandals. A spokesman for the grounds association said the loss was immeasurable. (Morning Photo on Page 8).

The church, located on Springfield established in 1773, "try to have place all of them back "so that south about a quarter of a mile. The church will "try to have place all of them back "so that southeast of the city limits, was some of the stones mended," Mrs. Mattocks will be there."

ns Assaulted His Wife

WHEN WAS SHE LAST SEEN ALIVE? — Police still are digging into the past of slain Mrs. Mary Hopkins, 45, whose picture here was made from a snapshot, in an effort to determine the last day she was actually seen alive. The nude, strangled body of Mrs. Hopkins was discovered seven days ago in an abandoned house on Willowbrook street, touching off an intense search for the killer. Scores of "tips" have been followed up since that time without success. —(Photo Courtesy Police Department.)

Dead Woman Feared Her Husband In January '50 Said She Was Abused By Her Mate

The six-day-old search for killer of Mrs. Mary Manganum Hopkins was still no nearer solution today.

Police Chief C. C. Stoker said this morning that the probe has not progressed substantially since yesterday, although officers assigned to the case were pressing a backward look into the past of the slain woman.

Meanwhile, Curtis Hopkins, husband of the victim, was still being held in City Jail. However, Chief Stoker said questioning of Hopkins at length would be deferred until later. The chief declined to comment on police plans to link Hopkins with the grim which rocked the city after the woman's body was found last Friday morning.

It was learned authoritatively at police headquarters this morning that the investigation of the slaying is being aimed primarily at building up evidence upon which Hopkins could be questioned on specific points.

Year Ago

Sources close to the investigation hinted that police have evidence Hopkins assaulted his wife as long as a year ago.

In January of last year, the source said, Mrs. Hopkins indicated she was in fear of her life and "almost constantly" abused by her husband. She confided to friends that Hopkins drank "nearly continuously," tore her clothes off and struck her with his fists.

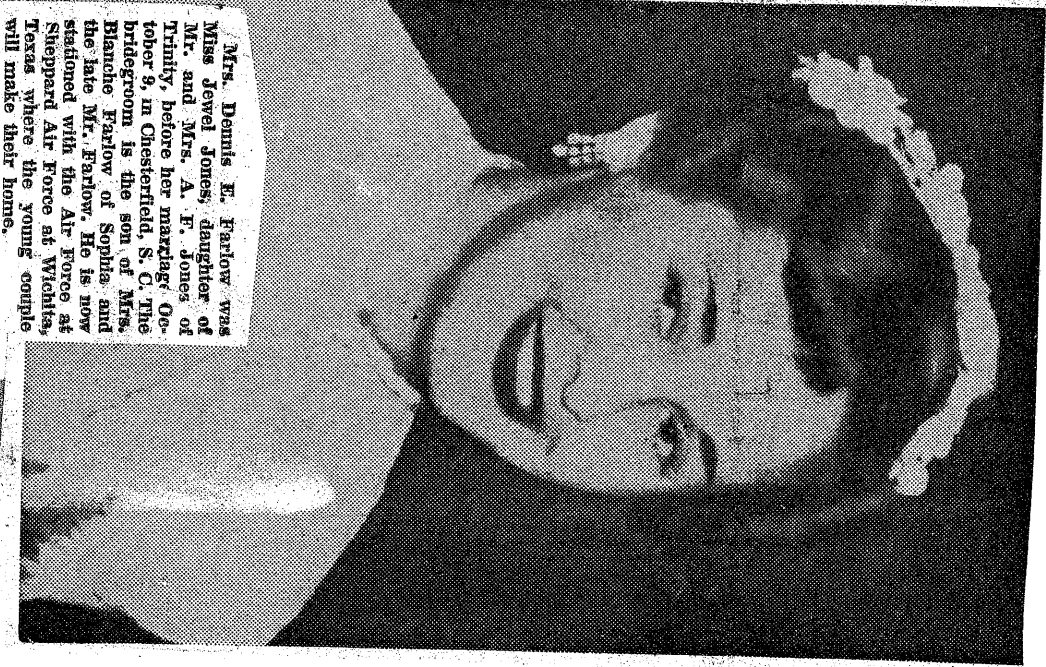

It was also learned that she accused him of loosening her teeth during an attack. On one occasion, she is reported to have said, he held a knife against her throat until blood was drawn.

The evidence is believed valuable as a possible connection with the crime which took the woman's life in the run-down frame shack.

Served Term

Hopkins arrested in Durham on the morning of February 19, has been serving a 30-day road term in Durham County. He was brought here Wednesday by High Point detectives with permission of Durham County authorities.

Police understand Hopkins was here from February 14 through February 18, when he took a night bus for Durham. Although Coroner Dr. W. W. Harvey estimated Mrs. Hopkins had been dead "at least a week" when the body was discovered, police are still exploring the possibility that she could have been dead as long as three weeks.

Mrs. Dennis E. Farlow was Miss Jewel Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Jones of Trinity, before her marriage October 9, in Chesterfield, S. C. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Blanche Farlow of Sophie, and the late Mr. Farlow. Modern Plumbing? Sophia Farmer Has Own Answer

Modern plumbing with all its conveniences is a wonderful thing, but when you cannot have it, you must rely on ingenuity to eliminate some of the drudgery involved in providing all the water necessary to running a household.

Such ingenuity has been applied on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farlow of route 1, Sophia, and it has eliminated a great deal of the work involved in getting water to the house from a spring more than 150 feet away. Although the Farlow farm house is more than 100 years old and has been continuously occupied since it was first built, it has no modern plumbing or even a well and all the water the family uses is drawn from the spring.

For many years after the first member of the family built the house, all the water used on the farm had to be carried up a steep hill from the spring. This is something of a back-breaking task according to Mr. and Mrs. Farlow who tried it for awhile. However, some years ago, Farlow decided that there must be an easier way to get the water from the spring. He was working on this angle when one day he ran into a neighbor who had bought an outfit designed for the explicit purpose of drawing water from a spring. Farlow promptly bought the outfit and brought it home.

OLD STYLE WELL—Shown above is Mrs. Frank Farlow of Sophia drawing water on an old style water system that has been in operation on the Farlow farm for more than 40 years. The bucket is fastened to a trolley mounted on a wire that leads from the porch of the house to a spring at the bottom of a hill. The spring is more than 150 feet from the house.

When the bucket is drawn up to the wheel, a small stick is placed between the spokes of the wheel to hold the bucket in place. To draw water, all that has to do is remove the stick and slowly let the bucket rise down the wire, guided by the trolley. As the bucket reaches the spring, it strikes the edge and tips over, thus filling with water. The bucket is drawn back to the porch.

The entire outfit was bought for a pittance but has proved its worth many times. Farlow says, "And he adds it has some advantages over the modern kind. When we aren't drawing water, we are not bothered by a drip." he says.

Other advantages of the rimarrated wear out an asket, does not freeze up during the winter, the water supply is never cut off for repairs, and you don't have to get a coopers' summer in order to get a drink of water. In the 40 years the outfit has been in use, the only repairs that have been required was a replacement of a few years ago.

Perhaps in another few years, we'll need some new posts," Farlow says, "but the High Point, and two grandchildren are here.

On March 17, 1928, he was married to Miss Maggie Buchanan. Surviving are the wife; one son, Arthur, and one daughter, Mrs. Edith Stalling. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan R. Skeen are the parents of the late Mr. Skeen. He was buried in the High Point cemetery.

ROFIFIABLE HOBBY—Shown above is Mrs. Nora Farlow of Sophia with some of her work spread out on the floor of her home. Mrs. Farlow says that she took up crocheting as a hobby after two of her sons were called into the army. Besides helping to pass the time, the hobby has also proved profitable as she has sold many items to her friends and neighbors throughout the community.

Mrs. Nora Farlow, Sophia, Turns Hobby Into Profit

The world's best remedy for day I decided to try something different, as I started making crocheted aprons, sets and aprons. Mrs. Farlow said.

About this time, she says, some of her friends who came to visit were intrigued by the various combinations of colors in the dinner sets and aprons she had about buying some of them. At about this time, she says, she started selling a few of the sets and aprons. Mrs. Farlow soon found herself swamped with orders from people all over her section of the county. So many people came in to look and to buy that Mrs. Farlow had to start taking orders for her handiwork.

An apron crocheted from a combination of colors of center pieces for tables sell for $7.50 and the dinner sets with place settings for eight, including a large centerpiece and individual plate and water glass holders, sell for $15.

In addition to the crocheting, Mrs. Farlow also makes attractive aprons from bright colored handkerchiefs which she buys. These are made in two different patterns using from three to four of the handkerchiefs and sell for from $1.25 to $1.50, depending on the number of handkerchiefs used.

work has provided her with many pleasurable moments and has also helped her to contribute to her church and missionary drive. She is taking up the work for the church. Mrs. Farlow says that she has had all her own special moments and also what she has done for the church circle.

Urgent Need For 'V-Men' In Operation Of Spotter Posts

Bartholomew county "V-men" will as soon as word comes from the War Department, begin 24-hour duty on the spotter posts throughout Randolph county. Formed and given trial workouts during the two-months maneuver period, the 17 spotter posts have now been cut down to 10. Official word was received from state council of national defense by Lacy Lewis, chairman of the local defense council in Asheboro, to the effect that the posts would begin their all-day volunteer service upon word from the War Department.

Such duty will necessitate the enrollment of many more "V-Men" to man the posts and enable those posts to operate every hour of the day for the duration of the war.

Further arrangements for the spotter posts were discussed at the meeting of Dixon Post No. 45 American Legion here Wednesday night. It was noted then that every post which will con-

The car owners who can get new tires are those whose vehicles are essential to services for health, safety and industrial and commercial operations of a limited nature.

These are:
1—Physicians, surgeons, visiting nurses, veterinarians.
2—Ambulances.
3—Fire fighting equipment, police vehicles, garbage removal trucks and mail delivery cars.
4—Public service vehicles with a capacity of 10 or more passengers on regular transportation routes, school busses or cars to carry workers to and from industrial plants.

TO POOL FACILITIES
5—Trucks for ice and fuel delivery, road maintenance, public utilities facilities, essential repair services, waste and scrap dealers, common carriers and transportation for raw materials, semi-finished or finished goods which are not moving directly to the household for ultimate consumers' use, farm tractors or other implements, except trucks or pleasure cars.

7—Industrial, mining and construction equipment, except trucks or other automobiles.

As to the prohibition against sale or use on cars delivering to consumers, it was explained that there were factors to relieve any situation involving delivery of milk, bakery products and department store goods.

The pooling of delivery facilities was one suggested solution especially where there is duplication of routes such as in milk and laundry services. Some of the bigger firms were said to have larger stocks of tires on hand to carry them along for some time.

Only retreaded, recapped or otherwise used tires are exempted from the regulations at present.

Traveling Salesmen and Many Commercial Trucks to Be Denied New Tires Dec. 1941

By The Associated Press, Dec. 27.—The nation's 32,000,000-odd motor car owners today faced an almost complete tire famine.

The Office of Price Administration cracked down all the way in a new rationing program, denying the vitally needed rubber not only to the Sunday pleasure driver, but to taxicabs, traveling salesmen and many commercial trucks.

The cut-off of crude rubber from the Far Eastern plantations may easily take millions of automobiles—with worn tires—from the street and rural highway.

SEVEN CLASSES
Price Administrator Leon Henderson—cognizant of the needs of the armed forces for a war of nobody knows how long a duration—yesterday issued regulations for local tire rationing boards which start operation Jan. 5. These regulations ban the issuance of purchasing certificates for new tires or tubes except to those coming within seven distinct classifications.

And the motorist who is now driving on fabric can't speed to his nearest dealer to stock up, for all supplies of new shoes and inner tubes are frozen until the rationing date.

taxicabs ARE included in Ban On Rubber

Dwight Trogdon Released Under Bond Of $2,500

Keever on February 6 on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill his brother, Homer, on the night of December 27. Homer Trogdon still remains in Randolph hospital as a result of the wounds, but he is reported to be improving as well as could be expected.

Formed and given trial workouts during the two-months maneuver period, the 17 spotter posts have now been cut down to 10. Official word was received from state council of national defense by Lacy Lewis, chairman of the local defense council in Asheboro, to the effect that the posts would begin their all-day volunteer service upon word from the War Department.

Such duty will necessitate the enrollment of many more "V-Men" to man the posts and enable those posts to operate every hour of the day for the duration of the war.

IN THE CHANGING CITY

Famed as a home and later as a hospital, this fine old building on E. Washington Street is being demolished. It was built by O. N. Jackson, a brother of Mrs. A. E. Tate, and used as a home for many years. In 1917 it was sold to Drs. W. L. Jackson, C. S. Grayson, S. S. Coe and Guy Duncan for use as Guilford General Hospital, later being consolidated with Burrus Memorial Hospital. When the Boulevard unit was enlarged in the 1940s, this building was sold to Dr. Jackson and used for a number of years as a tourist-boarding home. Bought by English Motor Co., it is being demolished so that that company can develop the land for other use. Plans are not complete, according to a company spokesman.

Shore Didi!

When snow began to fall Sunday about dark Wednesday, a lot of people who hadn't seen it were skeptical, but a quick winter look to say "I told you so." It was short and sweet and had almost gone and late last night, but it was beautiful while it lasted. Weather instruments at the town hall here do not record the amount of snowfall but it was estimated at from one-half to one inch. And the temperature, incidentally, took another fall and hit a low for the winter at 13 degrees.

STARTING GUN

The flash was the starting gun for the AP and The Enterprise. Instantly, the complex but smooth-functioning AP machinery shot into high gear, giving the 1,400 AP member newspapers the most comprehensive and accurate coverage possible.

The coverage was double-barreled; that is, pictures as well as news. AP's wirephoto system, the only one in existence that is leased and engineered exclusively for the transmission of pictures, sent out maps and photographs of the areas involved.

AP's facilities for handling this momentous news for readers of The Enterprise are simply unmatched.

By radio, by cable and by telephone, the news pours into AP's general headquarters in New York. Then goes out at a rate of 60 words a minute over the 285,000-mile news wire network. If the coverage becomes too heavy for the general news trunk wire, which stretches from coast to coast and borders to gulf, then an auxiliary network of regional wires is hooked up to handle the overflow. Thus, the war news sometimes moves out at a rate of 120 words a minute over the networks.

News from the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands usually comes direct to New York by wireless, but cable and telephone communications are frequently used. News from Shanghai, Nanking, Peiping and other Chinese points is usually sent by wireless to Manila or Honolulu, then to New York by wireless or telephone relay. News from Singapore and other British points in the Orient is wirelessly to London, hence to New York by the leased wire which links AP's general headquarters with the British capital. Immediately after the outbreak, communications with Tokyo were disrupted, but the news was picked up by AP radio, which is sent to the Domei (Japanese news agency) broadcasters.

TESTING POST

AP radio, listening post of the world's greatest news-gathering organization had been concentrating on European broadcasts prior to the Japanese attack, but turned immediately to the Far East to pick up broadcasts emanating from Manila, Hongkong, and Shanghai, as well as from Tokyo and other news centers.

AP's staff in the Orient is not only large, but thoroughly seasoned. Directing the coverage from Tokyo is Max Hill, former chief of the New York bureau, whose staff includes Joseph Dymal, R. P. Cronin, jr., heads the staff in Manila, and his assistants include Russell Brines and Clark Lee, in Bangkok; the staff in Saigon, French Indo-China, is Rehan French; Tokyo bureau chief for many years, C. Yates McDaniel, is an American who was born in China and who has spent most of his life there, is supervising the coverage in Singapore.

The Shanghai staff is headed by Morris J. Harris, chief of bureau and J. D. White, both experts on the Orient. Spencer Moose heads the AP bureau at Chungking.

MEN, 21 TO 37,
WILL BE CALLED

Men Who Register On February 16 Will Be Placed At Bottom Of List

Within a few months all selective service registrants in Randolph county will be called for active military service, according to a statement released by SSS Chief Lewis B. Hershey. Those men between 21 and 37 years of age will be on the alternate list, with all men who will register on February 16 being placed on the bottom of the list before call.

Hershey cautioned local draft boards against hysterical and indiscriminate classification of men for immediate service because of America's entry into the war.

The boards, however, will be drastic, he said, in placing registrants in the 1-A class, but present plans did not call for induction of men from other classes unless they had been reclassified as 1-A. He also stated that the time might be near when men classified as 1-B, for slight physical defects, would be called for active military service.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES IN 1956:

I am writing this letter as an act of faith in the destiny of our country. I desire to make a request which I make in full confidence that we shall achieve a glorious victory in the war we now are waging to preserve our democratic way of life.

My request is that you consider the merits of a young American youth of God's heritage — Colin P. Kelly, III — for appointment as a Cadet in the United States Military Academy at West Point. I make this appeal in the hope that you will be a token of the Nation's appreciation of the heroic services of his father who met death in the line of duty at the very outset of the struggle which was waged upon us by the perfidy of a Hitler.

In the conviction that the service example of Captain Colin P. Kelly, Jr. will be remembered, I ask for the consideration of the President of Colin P. Kelly, III.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

FDR WRITES 1956 PRESIDENT IN BELIEF OF COLIN P. KELLY III—In an unusual token of appreciation of the heroism of the late Capt. Colin P. Kelly, Jr., President Roosevelt has addressed a letter to the President of the United States—whoever he may be—in 1956, requesting the appointment of Capt. Kelly's 19-month-old son, Colin P. WAR'S C

World War II has engulfed the whole earth in the flames of war on a scale never known before to man. The map, at right, shows the dates, when each country, in some cases after local fighting or political upheavals, finally entered the conflict in its world-compassing phase. Although Austria and Czechoslovakia were invaded during earlier episodes, World War II began "officially" on September 1, 1939—the date when Nazis stormed into Poland. Since that date, with ever-accelerating speed, the torch of war has touched off conflagrations in every corner of the globe, finally, with Japan's attack on Hawaii engulfing the United States and other Western Hemisphere countries.

Although the map shows most South American countries to be neutral, more and more of these nations have lined up as sympathizers and friends of the Allies and they are helping organize a general South American policy toward Japan.

Line and dot shading in the map also generally indicates Axis-vs.-Allies lines, including countries which, though technically not at war, are occupied or under control of the belligerents.

Selectees Now Deferred Will Be Re-Examined Jan. 1942

Deferred men in the selective service system will be called for statement issued by a general boards from national headquarters. All deferred men are to be recalled for re-examination in view of wartime conditions.

The use of men for military service depends largely upon what can be done to correct remedial physical defects and meet physical standards set by the army.

Local boards have been informed that the class IV-A classification—predicated on previous military service—was ended when the United States entered the war.

Local boards have been cautioned, from national headquarters to give careful consideration to the cases of registrants who have been deferred as "necessary" men in industry, business, agriculture and professions, stating that "No man should be classed as a 'necessary' man until it is proven that he cannot be replaced in his job by someone who is untrained for military service."

The bride was striking in a costume suit of R.A.F. blue with black moiré hat and veil and black accessories. Her only ornament was an heirloom sunburst diamond and pearl brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. At her shoulder she wore a corsage of orchids. For travel she added a milk coat.

FALL OF MANILA GENERALLY FELT TO BE IMMINENT

JAPANESE ON OFFENSIVE
The fall of Manila, capital city of the Philippines, is imminent. Despite a stubborn resistance on the part of the American and Filipino troops under General Douglas MacArthur, military circles in Washington feel that the capital will fall. The small defending forces are fighting with their backs to the wall, contesting every foot of the ground and exacting a heavy toll from the invaders, who push on over mounds of their own dead.

The Japanese, with full command of the air and of the sea about the Philippines, have poured in reinforcements upon thousands of reinforcements at will, heavy landed tanks, armored cars, heavy artillery and horse cavalry. In addition to such overwhelming superiority of men and material, General MacArthur states frankly that Japanese dive bombers command the highways and are interfering with communications, behind the lines of the defending forces.

It is problematical just what General MacArthur will choose to do, whether he will withdraw to the mountains of Luzon province and fight a guerrilla warfare he will be forced to surrender his remaining forces.

Corregidor, the island fortress at the entrance to Manila harbor, has been severely attacked once, but not damaged to any extent. Military observers consider Corregidor one of the world's strongest fortresses, and believe it can hold out indefinitely against the Japs or any other assailant. Manila harbor will not be of any use to the Japs unless they can take Corregidor. Elsewhere in the Far East, the Japs are attacking methodically. They have bombed Singapore twice in as many days, and have attacked in Borneo, the Malay peninsula, and have shelled the Hawaiian coast.

State Told To Be On Guard

N. C. Would Be "Blind" Not To See Possibilities Of Raids, Says Governor

RALEIGH, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Saying that North Carolinians would be "blind" not to recognize the possibility of disastrous air raids on the state, Governor Brroughton today urged the chiefs and law enforcement officers to be prepared.

As the state quickened the tempo of its preparations for such emergencies, the governor addressed in short order first a meeting of representatives of law enforcement agencies and then a gathering of chiefs of five departments of the state.

"Nobody doubts but that while there would be sharp resistance and gallant opposition, it would be possible for the Germans or the Japanese to send planes over our country," the governor told the five chiefs.

Brroughton told the law enforcement officers that he would soon issue a proclamation granting members of the state highway patrol general police powers during the present emergency. The officers also discussed the question of deputizing citizens in emergencies and were urged to prepare lists of "qualified and dependable men" who could be deputized.

Text Of President's Declaration of War Message

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's war message to Congress follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

Yesterday, December 7, 1941—a date which will live in infamy—the United States of America was suddenly and deliberately attacked by naval and air forces of the Empire of Japan.

The United States was at peace with that nation and, at the solicitation of Japan, was still in communication with its government and its emperor looking toward the maintenance of peace in the Pacific.

Indeed, one hour after Japanese air squadrons had commenced bombing in Oahu, the Japanese ambassador to the United States and his colleague delivered to the secretary of state a formal reply to a recent American message. While this reply stated that it seemed useless to continue the existing diplomatic negotiations, it contained no threat or hint of war or armed attack.

It will be recorded that the distance of Hawaii from Japan makes it obvious that the attack was deliberately planned many days or even weeks ago. During the intervening time, the Japanese government has deliberately sought to deceive the United States by false statements and expressions of hope for continued peace.

The attack yesterday on the Hawaiian Islands has caused severe damage to American naval and military forces. Very many American lives have been lost. In addition, American ships have been reported torpedoed on the high seas between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Yesterday the Japanese government also launched an attack against Malaya.

Last night Japanese forces attacked Hongkong.

Last night Japanese forces attacked Guam.

Last night Japanese forces attacked the Philippine Islands.

Last night the Japanese attacked Wake Island.

This morning the Japanese attacked Midway Island.

Japan has, therefore, undertaken a surprise offensive extending throughout the Pacific area. The facts of yesterday's attack on the United States have already formed the opinions and well understood the implications to the very life and safety of our nation.

As commander-in-chief of the army and navy, I have directed that all measures be taken for our defense.

Always will we remember the character of the onslaught against us.

WILL WIN

No matter how long it may take us to overcome this premeditated invasion, the American people in their righteous might will win through to absolute victory.

I believe I interpret the will of the Congress and of the people (D-Fla) and Smathers (D-NJ) reached the chamber to make the House vote for war with Germany was 399 for with 90 to 0. The Senate vote for war against Germany was 88 to 0.

This was Rep. Jeanette Rankin (R-Mont), who cast the lone vote against war with Japan and who voted against war with Germany in 1917.

Just before the ballot, Senators listened to a message from President Roosevelt asking the war declaration and saying that "never before has there been a greater challenge to life, liberty and civilization."

Senate galleries were only partly filled during the noon-day session. Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, and other representatives of the diplomatic corps.

Randolph's Home-Coming Day—A Prelude.

(Randolph County Fair, Friday, September 23)

I want to go back, I want to go back To the place where I was raised. Nobody had much, but we didn't care For folks were kind and they toled fair.

And had was had had good was praised.

I want to go back, I want to go back Where every fifth man's named Cox.

I want to wade through pastures green.

Hopping to meet some chap might Skeen

And every mile or so a Fox. I want to go back, I want to go back—

Say, where are the Millikans now: And the Davises of the old Doug strain.

The Farlow Quakers and the stanch Coltrane,

And the Deep river York and Yow?

I want to go back, I want to go back Where the woods are full of Peerees;

Where Shanburger weds into the family Howard.

And the Jennings calls on Routh and Coward.

It would add to my spirit's peace To hear the purr of the Pann Wood branch

As it flows down to Ecks' dam: And I want to go with Tom Winslow In search of Swain, Lineberry, Pre-voist.

And meet a Winningham.

I want to see some of the Spencers, too.

The Weatherly, Worth and Write;

I want to greet Bullas, Bunches and Browns,

Get an careful of their ups and their downs,

See what their children are like. I want to see Hooper, Hoover and Hall.

Shake hands with a Slack and a Spoon;

I want to hear a Whammer in his loudest baw!

And if no one else, there's surely a Wall

Who'll take out for dinner at noon.

I want to go back an home-coming day.

I want to see Dorsett and Kearns; I want to meet Ashworth from out on Uwharrie,

I'd like to see Klavetts, Bunjer and Carrie,

And I've just got to see a Burns, Gess and Rushes and Lamberts and Lowses.

The Rodgerses and the Rob-bines; Reddigs six feet in their socks, if any, Morgans from Caraway—there'll not be many— But salt of the earth are these Of the Annans Daviss and Jasper are gone; Don't know where Mrs. Dempsey is.

But I'd stand in line and take my turn

A half a day for some cooking o' hern—

Her vittles are simply bliss.

Want to see Ganner, Galin and Harden,

Hayworth, and Hendricks and Hughes,

Want to see Hancock's and Hammonds and Pages—

Some of the Hinshaws I've not met for ages—

Swap hes and pieces of news. Used to be Doves over at Franklinville.

Caddells down Ramseur way; Do you reckon the Jarralls will be at the fair?

I shored would admire to meet Cassan there

And pass the time o' day. Pritchard and Presnell—where is old Pete?

Will Sam Forter be on time? Where's Julius Helper and Hez Andrews.

The Farmer Hubbards and the Randleman Pughs?

I'll bet a brand new dime That Lottin and Laughlin will be on hand.

And the Johnsons Ed and Clay. And if Allreds in passing should be to and fro,

Be sure to send word to Jim Lutcherloh—

Bhligged to see Jim anyway. Murrin and Marley, Tysor and Trogdon.

Coffin, Causey, Tysinger, Cranford, Caviness, Amick and sich.

Make way for Shern Haddock and old Billy Rich—

A pair that's a hunderinger,

I want to go back, I want to go back; And of all the things I ween,

That I'm honing for as the day draws nigh

And I think of the Henleys, Lizzin and Levi,

Is a sight of Bill Moreen —ANONYMOUS, in Daily News

Visit Of Street Preacher Starts Trouble In Town

Barrage Of Eggs Halts His Street Attack On Al Smith And Catholic Church. Results In Arrests

One Thing Leads To Another And Soon Magistrate's Courts Get Work To Do.

Roma Calab Garner, who states that he is from Illinois and is an ordained minister of the gospel, accompanied by his wife and small daughter, came into Asheboro the first of last week, and soon after trouble started. On Tuesday night, Mr. Garner essayed a sermon or speech on the corner of Fayetteville and Depot streets, but desisted in his efforts in denouncing Governor Al Smith, of New York, and Catholics in general after a shower of eggs had descended upon him. Garner was also demonstrating a book which purports to give his life experiences, and was distributing literature attacking Governor Smith and the Catholic church.

On Thursday night, Mr. Garner lectured, preached or demonstrated, to quite a good-sized audience in the court house. This meeting, Mr. Garner claims, was interrupted by J. V. Wilson. Mr. Wilson was arrested Friday on a warrant charging him with disturbing public worship and with being intoxicated. He was tried Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock before G. R. Garner, justice of the peace, who, after hearing the evidence in the case, dismissed the charge of disturbing public worship, holding that the meeting was held for the purpose of pushing the sale of the book which Mr. Garner offers. Judgment on the latter charge was reserved until a later date. Mr. Wilson was re-arrested Sunday and cited for trial in Randleman Monday. A continuance of thirty days was asked at this hearing and granted.

On Saturday morning Z. H. Rush was put on trial in magistrate's court in charge of assault with an egg, it being alleged that Rush was the person who hurled the eggs at Mr. Garner on Tuesday night. Mr. Rush was arrested Friday on a warrant sworn out in Randleman and held for trial Saturday under bond of $500. At September's hearing he was held for higher court under $250 bond. Saturday night, Mr. Garner delivered a lecture or sermon in the lodge room on the third story of the old postoffice building. Some 50 or 75 persons attended this meeting.

Mr. Garner was arrested Thursday night on charge of peddling books without a license, and at a hearing Friday morning was bound over to Superior Court under bond of $250.

Mr. Garner lays claim to being an ordained minister of the gospel. He stated on the witness stand at the hearing Saturday afternoon that he had been indicted 19 times in his life, and that a part of these indictments charged him with inciting riots. He also stated that he had served about two years in the Michigan penitentiary, he says for singing "My Country 'tis of Thee." The trial, he alleges was heard by a Catholic judge and before a jury composed of Catholics.

The literature which Mr. Garner distributed in town during his stay severely attacks the Catholics and especially Governor Al Smith of New York. The reading of this propaganda and the remarks made by Mr. Garner in his discourses riled some of the Smith supporters in Asheboro, and, one thing leading to another, several indictments as above noted have grown out of the matter.

Big Snows Of Past Years Are Recalled

During One Deep Snow Thirty Deer Died In Randolph Co.—Other Snows.

The snow which fell Tuesday night in the recollection of many of the older inhabitants of the town of Ashboro is the largest in a hundred years, but there are some who can remember snows which they think were as large as this one in average depth and in depth of drifts.

For instance, W. R. Hamlin recalls a snow 53 years ago which in depth was about equal to the one now on the ground. To make this snow still more disagreeable, a light crust of ice froze over the top of it. He recalls that thirty deer died in the county during the snow, many of them killed when their throats were cut by the icy crust while they were floundering about in the snow after they had broken through the ice.

Carson Burgess recalls that 57 years ago while he was living at Slaley there was a big snow, so large that rail fences were completely covered by the drifts.

R. R. Ross recalls a large snow seventy years ago. Galleys and ditches were covered over level and considerable difficulty was experienced by people in getting about. Fences were also covered by the drifts.

S. E. Lowdermilk recalls that many years ago there was a snow of similar depth to the present.

DO NOT INHERIT "T. B."

IT IS COMMUNICABLE

Sanatorium, September 15th.—Previous to Koch's discovery of the tubercle bacilli, and among ignorant people since, it has been held that tuberculosis is inherited. It is now known that it is not inherited, but infectious or communicable. It is also generally agreed that most infection occur in chilihood.

The germs of tuberculosis are found in the sputum or spit that consumptives cough up. Intimate and close association of the well with the sick may lead to infection if proper precautions are not taken. Probably most infections occur from inhaling air in which are large numbers of the germs, or the germs are conveyed to the mouth on the fingers or in food contaminated from floors, sidewalks and gutters where consumptives spit.

Physicians declare that large numbers of persons contain in their systems the tubercle bacilli. With the tubercle bacilli so general and wide spread right living is the best means of preventing the disease. Rest, food and fresh air are today the recognized essentials for the cure of the disease. Methods of living that will cure tubercle disease will prevent it.

HIGH POINT GIRL WINS HUSBAND THROUGH MARRIAGE BUREAU

A correspondence courtship of seven months in which a matrimonial agency played the part of match-maker and postal employes carried the kindly plations of two hearts culminated at Greensboro Monday at West Market Street Methodist Episcopal church when Miss Mary Louise White, of High Point, became the bride of Thomas E. Johnson, of Detroit, Mich.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Kirk, pastor of the church, and was witnessed by the required number of persons.

The couple married had never seen each other until Monday, when they met here and journeyed to the county courthouse to secure license. But for seven long months they had carried on a long distance courtship with the mails augmented now and then by telegraphic wires, finally bringing the romance to full fruition.

The bridegroom is an automobile mechanic employed in the great Detroit factory of Henry and Edsel Ford. Six months ago he obtained the name and address of Miss White through a matrimonial agency, and the trust work was underway. The trust was short but effective.

Certificates of fitness to marry were obtained by the couple from Dr. J. G. Groome, High Point, who declared them seemed very much pleased with the location of a life partner. The bridegroom told the physicians that he had been saving his money for months in preparation for the big day and that he had already acquired a furnished apartment in Detroit for his bride.

Mr. Johnson declared that it was no strange that he should come all the way to North Carolina for a bride, for he on the girls in Detroit.

The newlyweds are spending a few days in High Point as the guests of Mrs. Johnson's sister, Mrs. D. L. Clodfelter, after which they will go to Detroit to make their home.

From a Rockingham Courier. Dear Cousins:—As I've been silent for a long time I'll write a few lines. I hope you are all well. What is the possession of this love? All that love God and bear a week, humble and sacrificing spirit, and also, keep the commandments of God. It is manifested in loving our enemies and praying for them that despitefully use our names. It is this love that makes us willing to lay our lives down for our brethren and sisters. How great is this love that makes us willing to spend our lives for the less fortunate and widows; that makes us search for the sheep gone astray; that checks the harsh words that spring to our lips; that stifles the unkind thought with a groom? If we possess that love it keeps us from trampling on the feelings of the least of our brethren and sisters. It calls us into our infancy, saying, little children of heaven, unto me for such is the kingdom of heaven. Also in old age and keep his commandments. Also in old age and keep his up too. And when your work on earth is ended, it will be well done then good and faithful servant, enter into the joys of thy Lord. It is not like the poor fleshly body, chained to earth, earthy. But it shone before the dust of earth was fashioned, and will live when earth is hid. As a scroll it is sweeter than honey, and more precious than gold. It brought the consolation of heaven, and has own darling son from the courts of heaven to die that we might be saved from our sins. Behold, what manner of love is it that wipes all tears from our eyes, and says there shall be no more weeping, nor death any dying. And through the life, death and resurrection of our Saviour we are borne to the never ceasing ages of eternal life. Who can fathom his heights deep, his depths, his breadth? None but God for, God only love. Every one that reads this letter and prays, a prayer that to God please may for me to stand true to God and do his blessed will at all times. I'll pray for you all. Any one that cares to write to me here is my address. From a girl that is trying to serve the Lord in the beauty of holiness. FANNIE J. LRAKE, Price, N. C., R. 1, Box 13.

Biggest Artificial Body of Water in the World.

Limn Creek, county seat of Camden county, Missouri, is to be obliterated with any further trace of the town, finding its resting place at the bottom of a 50-foot lake. With it will go several hundred farms and homes, schoolhouses, churches and 36 family burial plots and cemeteries—all to be sacrificed for more and cheaper electric power.

The lake is to be formed by damming the Osage river, at Bagnell. It will be the largest artificial body of water in the world. It will cover 65,000 acres of the Osage Valley in four counties. The lake will be 100 miles long, with a shore of approximately 4,000 miles and its depth from 30 to 40 feet. At least 150,000 horse power will be generated.

Of course all property owners are to be reimbursed. The company has offered a $60,000 court house to be built wherever the county wants it. Other public buildings are to be replaced. A site has been offered to the town by a mining concern, operating the newly discovered lead mines in the hills near by. Even the dead are to be removed to new cemeteries at no cost to relatives. But nothing the company can do in a material way can take the place of the sentimental value of the old home sites.

In our issue last week we carried a story of the expedition that flew over the north pole recently. The U. S. naval observation at Washington gives out the following respecting the rising and setting of the sun in the frozen north. "Within a distance of about four minutes of arc from the north pole the sun rises and sets once a year. At a slightly greater distance the sun's up per limit can be seen for the above the horizon and then shortly disappears before it rises to stay up for six months and a distance of about 22 minutes of arc from the pole the entire sun can be seen to rise above the horizon and then entirely disappear below it hours later before rising to stay up.

"The number of sunrises in a year varies from 465 at a short distance south of the arctic circle to one at the pole, increasing with the distance from the pole. At the pole there is two light from sunset at the autumnal equinox to about Nov. 14 and again from Jan. 29 to sunrise at the vernal equinox. At a short distance from the pole there are a number of days between the continuous darkness and the continuous twilight on which there is twilight for part of each 24 hours. The number of such days increases with the distance from the pole. South of about five and one-half degrees from the pole there is no continuous darkness, twilight being continuous in duration from the last sunset about Oct. 16 to about Oct. 27 and from about Feb. 16 to the first sunrise about March 15, and the interval between Oct. 27 and Feb. 16, South of about nine degrees from the pole twilight never continues throughout the 24 hours of any day."

Ed Farlow is dead and Marvin Harris is being held in the Randolph county jail at Asheboro without bail as a result of a homicide near Mt. Calied church Friday morning, about 10 o'clock. There were no witnesses to the homicide and the only information procurable comes through the man held under the serious charge. Later Farlow went to Harris and secured his original propert, but did not get the difference of $2.50 in cash paid at the time of the first exchange. DEATH OF MRS. DUNCAN NEWLIN

Mrs. Dosky Newlin died suddenly at her home on Sophia route 1, Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock, January 27, 1927. Her death was caused by her clothes being ignited from an open fire place and practically all clothes were burned from her body. She fell to the floor and died before assistance could reach her. Her aged husband who has been blind for a number of years and very feeble, was alone by the fire with her at the time and could do nothing to extinguish the flames but called for help. The son and daughter being away, when they arrived at the scene she drew only a few breaths. She had been very feeble for the last few years, having suffered a few paralytic strokes. She was a daughter of the late James and Rachel Farlow, and had spent all of her life in Randolph, before her marriage to Duncan Newlin a number of years ago. She gave her age recently as 84 years. She was a good mother, a good neighbor, doing good to her friends and neighbors as long as she was able. The writer visited her a few days before her death and although very feeble and weak, she could still smile a cheery welcome and appreciation of the visit.

She is survived by her husband and two sons, Halzie Newlin, of Charlotte, and Ralph Newlin at home. And by two daughters, Miss Mary Newlin, of Greensboro, and Miss Clara Newlin at home. The funeral was conducted at Marlboro Friends church by Rev. M. C. Farlow Friday evening at 3 o'clock. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

There are three words that sweetly blend.

They on our hearts are prayer, A precious soothing balm they lend. These words are Mother Home and Heaven.

While from our side dear mother has fled, And happy home be but a memory, Let's meet dear mother in Heaven again.
